This Incomparable Land A Guide To American Nature:

This Incomparable Land Thomas Jefferson Lyon, 2001 Nature writing is essential to awakening an ecological way of seeing The author covers the full spectrum of the genre including field guides travel and adventure stories and essays on solitary and back country living This new edition contains an updated bibliography of primary and secondary sources in nature writing through the end of the 20th century The Atlas of U.S. and Canadian Environmental History Char Miller, 2003-08-08 This visually dynamic historical atlas chronologically covers American environmental history through the use of four color maps photos and diagrams and in written entries from well known scholars Organized into seven categories each chapter covers agriculture wildlife and forestry land use and management technology and industry pollution The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism Greg Garrard, 2014-07-03 The Oxford Handbook of Ecocriticism provides a broad survey of the longstanding relationship between literature and the environment The moment for such an offering is opportune in many respects multiple environmental crises are increasingly inescapable at both transnational and local levels the role of the humanities in addition to technology and politics is increasingly recognized as central for exploring and finding solutions and the subject of ecocriticism has reached a kind of critical mass both within its Anglo American heartlands and beyond From its origins in the study of American Nature Writing and British Romanticism ecocriticism has developed along numerous theoretical historical cultural and geographical axes the most contemporary and exciting of which will be represented in the Handbook The contributors include eminent founders of the field including Michael Branch and Richard Kerridge a number of key second wave ecocritics and the best up and coming scholars Topics covered include Renaissance anxieties about nature the challenges of representing climate change the racialization of the environment in the early 20th century language and the concept of biosemiotics and the possibilities for environmental humour Exchanges between Literature and Science from the 1800s to the 2000s Márcia Lemos, 2017-03-07 This collection of essays responds to the intense interest that the relations between the discourses of literature and other cultural practices and those of science have obtained throughout various fields of study Spanning a period between the mid nineteenth century and the twenty first century the work collected here is firmly focused on the cultural significance of scientific discoveries and practices and especially on the manifold representations of science and scientists in literature and the arts Its four sections develop from an initial moment of dwindling indefiniteness of borders between literature and the sciences to the historical perception of an increasing divide between the two cultures to use C P Snow s influential expression as well as calls for a form of convergence or consilience in Edward Wilson s words The final section turns to the medical sciences a porous scientific discipline in relation to the humanities which suggests that consilience can already be found partially in specific areas As such this collection contributes towards critically extending that integration through the discussion of key literary representations of science its promises and its problems Rachel Carson Karen F. Stein, 2013-02-11 Karen F Stein University of Rhode Island Kingston USA Rachel Carson is the twentieth century's most significant environmentalist Her books about the sea blend science and poetry as they invite readers to share her celebration of the ocean's wonders Silent Spring her graphic and compelling exposé of the damage caused by the widespread aerial spraying of persistent organic pesticides such as DDT opened our eyes to the interconnectedness of all living beings and the ecological systems we inhabit Carson's work challenges our belief that science and technology can control the natural world asks us to recognize our place in the world around us and inspires us to treat the earth respectfully She calls us to rekindle our sense of wonder at nature's power and beauty and to tread lightly on the earth so that it will continue to sustain us and our descendants This book guides readers on a journey through Carson's life and work considers Carson's legacies and points to some of the continuing challenges to sustainability It provides a listing of resources for reading learning or teaching about the environment about nature writing and about Carson and the crucial issues she addressed

The Real Story Sarah Statz Cords, Robert Burgin, 2006-03-30 Here is your road map to the vast and previously uncharted terrain of recreational nonfiction After defining the genre and discussing its unique characteristics and appeals the author describes more than 500 popular nonfiction titles and organizes them according to genre Everything from true adventure true crime and travel narratives to investigative nonfiction environmental writing and life stories Genres are subdivided into subgenres and popular themes such as micro histories deep science and humorous memoirs Focus is on the best titles published within the last decade with key classics and benchmark titles also cited For each title you'll find a short list of nonfiction read-alikes and fiction read-alikes are listed for each genre

Teaching North American Environmental Literature Laird Christensen, Mark C. Long, Frederick O. Waage, 2008 From stories about Los Angeles freeways to slave narratives to science fiction environmental literature encompasses more than nature writing The study of environmental narrative has flourished since the MLA published Teaching Environmental Literature in 1985 Today writers evince a self-consciousness about writing in the genre teachers have incorporated field study into courses technology has opened up classroom possibilities and institutions have developed to support study of this vital body of writing The challenge for instructors is to identify core texts while maintaining the field's dynamic open qualities The essays in this volume focus on North American environmental writing presenting teachers with background on environmental justice issues ecocriticism and ecofeminism Contributors consider the various disciplines that have shaped the field including African American American Indian Canadian and Chicana/o literature The interdisciplinary approaches recommended treat the theme of predators in literature ecology and ethics conservation and film A focus on place-based literature explores how students can physically engage with the environment as they study literature The volume closes with an annotated resource guide organized by subject matter
