films appeared there were no directors With no actors sets costumes or sound what appeared onscreen was simply decided and drawn by an animator Since early films were usually made by only one or two artists there was little need for planning Organization was loose When Walt Disney started animating on shorts and advertising projects in Kansas City Missouri he followed that process along with fellow artist and friend Ub Iwerks Walt found that his strength was in story and character He began writing outlines describing what would appear scene by scene Soon the text was accompanied by a sketch previsualizing the layout giving all animators working on a film a clear vision of how their parts fit into the whole Ultimately Walt shepherded stories from their inception through every revision and gag He approved every camera angle He dictated what happened in every shot sometimes every frame obsessing over every detail While not credited as such onscreen Walt was the first Disney director As the Disney studio grew Walt organically evolved the role of director reflecting the amount of trust he had in those he worked with his interest in a specific project and what other projects he had on his plate Walt expected his directors to follow his instructions and to improve the work at every turn Directing at Disney The Original Directors of Walt s Animated Films offers the little known history behind Walt s foundational directors such as Wilfred Jackson Clyde Geronimi and Dave Hand These talents directed some of the most beloved films in existence Snow White and Seven Dwarfs Pinocchio Peter Pan and One Hundred and One Dalmatians yet virtually no one has heard of them until now the happy image of an animated cartoon or comic strip character There is an ever growing market for these collectibles and stacks of books pose as pricing guides Yet Tim Hollis is the first to examine the entire story of character licensing and merchandising from a historical view Toons in Toyland focuses mainly on the post World War II years circa 1946 1980 when the last baby boomers were in high school During those years the mass merchandising of cartoon characters peaked

However the concept of licensing cartoon characters for toys trinkets and other merchandise dates back to the very first newspaper comics character the Yellow Kid who debuted in 1896 and was soon appearing on a variety of items Eventually cartoon producers and comic strip artists counted on merchandising as a major part of their revenue stream It still plays a tremendous role in the success of the Walt Disney Company and many others today Chapters examine storybooks such as Little Golden Books comic books records board games jigsaw puzzles optical toys including View Master and Kenner s Give a Show Projector and holiday paraphernalia Extending even beyond toys food companies licensed characters galore remember the Peanuts characters plugging bread and Dolly Madison snacks And roadside attractions amusement parks campgrounds and restaurants think Yogi Bear and Jellystone Park Campgrounds all bought a bit of cartoon magic to lure the green waves of tourists dollars
