commodity so business leaders who can save their customers time more effectively than competitors do will win their loyalty. This book shows how it's done. Business survival requires valuing what customers value and in our overworked and distraction rich era customers value their time above all else. Real time companies beat their rivals by being faster and more responsive in meeting customer needs. To become a real time company as top scholars Jerry Power and Tom Ferratt explain you need a real time monitoring and response system. They offer detailed advice on how to put procedures in place that will collect data on how well products or services are saving customer time, identify strengths, weaknesses, threats and opportunities and specify innovations needed to save even more customer time. Where should leaders look to innovate? Powers and Ferratt say to search every step in the life of a product or service from development to production to usage. And for each step they identify four possible levers for innovation: the design of the products or services themselves, the process used to produce them, the data that can be gathered on their use and the people who make or provide the product or service. The book features dozens of examples of companies that are getting it right and the innovations they used to help their customers save time all while helping themselves to a hefty slice of market share. This is a comprehensive, authoritative guide to thriving in a revolution that is sweeping every industry and sector.

Daily Graphic Ransford Tetteh, 2014-09-12 Village Phone

Replication Manual David Keogh, Tim Wood, United Nations ICT Task Force, 2005. Why is it such a challenge to provide telecommunications to rural areas? High initial infrastructure investment, relative low call volumes, high maintenance costs due to harsh environments, cash box collection needs, cash security costs for coin operated phones, card availability for prepaid airtime systems, technical illiteracy, remote locations and high transportation costs are just some of the impediments to providing rural telecommunications access. This manual is based on the experiences of the Village Phone Programmes in Bangladesh and Uganda. In rural villages where no telecommunications services have previously existed, the programme provides cellular phones via a sustainable financing mechanism to poor entrepreneurs who use the phone to operate a business. Such has been the success that over 2 000 village phone businesses are now operating in remote villages of Uganda. This manual is a guideline for replicating the programme in a new country. It establishes a template for creating sustainable initiatives that bring telecommunications to the poor, create viable new businesses for micro entrepreneurs and expand the customer base for telecommunications companies.
