Using evidence-based data as well as information regarding the assessment and treatment of cluttering within the field of speech language pathology, the volume includes the latest research findings and work from leading cluttering experts worldwide. Current viewpoints regarding cluttering, along with substantiated evidence, are provided. Research findings are presented regarding the nature and neurology of cluttering. A range of assessment and treatment methodologies are described in the context of disorders that may co-occur with cluttering, such as autism spectrum disorders, learning disabilities, Down syndrome, and stuttering. Future directions with regards to the definition, teaching, and researching of cluttering are also addressed. Clinicians, faculty members, researchers, students, and those in the field of speech pathology and those who clutter alike will find this book an essential and unique source of information on cluttering.
