Ventanas De Manhattan:

Ventanas de Manhattan Antonio Muñoz Molina, 2004 Me gusta acordarme de cada una de mis caminatas y de todas las ventanas a las que me he ido asomando en Manhattan Con este propósito Antonio Muñoz Molina en primera persona escritor y personaje a un tiempo visita en estas páginas los rincones más personales de Nueva York Se convierte así en observador cómplice de una realidad próxima a la ficción que configura nuestro imaginario vital y cultural Fruto de sus prolongadas estancias a lo largo de varios años este libro es un canto apasionado a la ciudad de contrastes por antonomasia Nueva York esconde tantas caras como ventanas exhibe las de los decorados de los musicales de Broadway las de los edificios iluminados del otro lado de Central Park las que cayeron con las Torres Gemelas aquel 11 de septiembre las tachadas con tablones en el reverso sombreado del Bronx o de Harlem La ventana es el marco de una pintura de Hopper una acuarela de Katz la presencia ausente en una película de Hitchcock o la literatura de Cheever el eco del jazz de Duke Ellington o John Coltrane Como Ardor guerrero y Sefarad este libro participa a la vez de la novela y del relato de hechos reales lo que predomina en él es por una parte la naturaleza envolvente de un estilo tan sugerente y un timbre de voz tan personal como los que han venido caracterizando al autor desde sus inicios llevados aquí a una desplegada y soberana madurez y por otra parte una actitud crítica y estética ante la pesadilla y maravilla de la gran ciudad que en la línea del Lorca de Poeta en Nueva York construye con material verídico una alucinación y una compleja fabula moral

The Discourse of Flanerie in Antonio Muñoz Molina's

Texts Richard Sperber, 2015-09-10 Edgar Allan Poe Charles Baudelaire and Walter Benjamin have shown that flânerie is anything but an aimless stroll Walking through London Paris and Berlin entailed engagements with the latest modernity Thought provoking exhilarating and at times terrifying flânerie adjusted to and documented the mobility of modernity its aesthetic possibilities and social risks Antonio Muñoz Molina is one of several contemporary authors who have closely coupled the development of their literary characters to urban perambulations Their biographic growth cultural and social adaptations as well as epistemological insights are so dependent on flânerie that his late twentieth and early twenty first century texts warrant the designation flâneur literature Muñoz Molina has also contributed to the current decentralization of flâneur literature from Paris to smaller cities including Spanish cities like Granada Córdoba and San Sebastián Reflecting on Poe Baudelaire and Benjamin in these cities his characters update and revise the canon of flâneur literature stretching its discursive boundaries This study examines not only the mobility of his characters but also draws attention to intercultural aspects of his flâneur literature which lie both in a uniquely Spanish perspective on flânerie as well as in engagements with cultural otherness Walking through a Moroccan city or through Chinatown in New York Muñoz Molina's characters broaden the Eurocentric horizon of canonical flâneur literature and the modernist one of his Spanish flâneur precursor Federico García Lorca whose portrait of New York is revisited in Muñoz Molina's longest flâneur text National and literary boundaries blur as intercultural urban spaces transform his characters into transnational subjects This study traces the author's struggle
