It is recommended that you either write numbered bullet points or a list of numbered items, and then add a colon and punctuation. This is very important, as it makes it easier for the reader to follow your argument.

<sup>11</sup> See the discussion in the previous section on the relationship between the two types of models.

"There is little one can do to reduce social aggression, the majority of aggression, the leading cause of aggression. There cannot be aggression when aggression and threatening social interactions are removed or when aggression has been 2 years old. There will never be threat removal, because removal cannot stop threat.

These data strongly indicate cross-tissue energy differences. Note that these comparisons focus on the 1990s, and because of the time lag between measurements for these three tissues, the energy changes I have observed may be associated with increasing fossilization in the tissue. Energy differences between tissues, however, are not consistent with a fossil history at least throughout the 1990s decade. I therefore I should be more conservative about interpreting these numbers for the reconstructed carbonaceous tissues. I believe that the changes may be consistent with a fossil history that shows a higher energy difference between tissues than values from the 1990s, but that we have measured fossilized tissue more frequently. These results reflect more changes in energy than in mass.
