Surviving Covid Resistance and Resilience of Movie Box Office Based on Machine Learning Prediction Yucheng Fang,2022 As one of the industries most impacted by the pandemic the U S Canada movie box office market plummeted by 80% in 2020 However anecdotal reports suggest that not all categories of movies were equally affected This study focuses on investigating Covid s influence on different types of movies in the U S movie market specifically how the movie box office of different movies changes under Covid By utilizing a movies release database from SNL Kagan spanning 5 years additional data from various sources and machine learning methods the study compares their actual box office receipts to the receipts predicted by a machine learning program The predicted receipts are the movies box office receipts if they were released in non Covid times The data shows that the overall movie budget is reduced in Covid and the return on investment ROI also declines significantly In addition the results show that PG rated movies suffer the greatest loss in box office and R rated movies have the least loss The study proposes a way to inquire into different genres resistance and resilience to Covid and theaters shutdowns

Using Sentiment and Social Network Analyses to Predict Opening-movie Box-office Success Lyric Pankaj Doshi,2010 In this thesis we explore notions of collective intelligence in the form of web metrics social network analysis and sentiment analysis to predict the box office income of movies Successful prediction techniques would be advantageous for those in the movie industry to gauge their likely return and adjust pre and post release marketing efforts Additionally the approaches in this thesis may also be applied to other markets for prediction as well We explore several modeling approaches to predict performance on the Hollywood Stock Exchange HSX prediction market as well as overall gross income Some models use only a single movie s data to predict its future success while other models build from the data of all the movies together The most successful model presented in this thesis improves on HSX and provides high correlations low predictive error on both HSX delist prices as well as the final gross income of the movies We also provide insights for future work to build on this thesis to potentially uncover movies that perform exceptionally poorly or exceptionally well
