Giovanni Francesco Straparola,2012-01-01 Renowned today for his contribution to the rise of the modern European fairy tale Giovan Francesco Straparola c 1480 c 1557 is particularly known for his dazzling anthology The Pleasant Nights Originally published in Venice in 1550 and 1553 this collection features seventy three folk stories fables jests and pseudo histories including nine tales we might now designate for mature readers and seventeen proto fairy tales Nearly all of these stories including classics such as Puss in Boots made their first ever appearance in this collection together the tales comprise one of the most varied and engaging Renaissance miscellanies ever produced Its appeal sustained it through twenty six editions in the first sixty years This full critical edition of The Pleasant Nights presents these stories in English for the first time in over a century The text takes its inspiration from the celebrated Waters translation which is entirely revised here to render it both more faithful to the original and more sparkishly idiomatic than ever before The stories are accompanied by a rich sampling of illustrations including originals from nineteenth century English and French versions of the text As a comprehensive critical and historical edition these volumes contain far more information on the stories than can be found in any existing studies literary histories or Italian editions of the work Donald Beecher provides a lengthy introduction discussing Straparola as an author the nature of fairy tales and their passage through oral culture and how this phenomenon provides a new reservoir of stories for literary adaptation Moreover the stories all feature extensive commentaries analysing not only their themes but also their fascinating provenances drawing on thousands of analogue tales going back to ancient Sanskrit Persian and Arabic stories Immensely entertaining and readable The Pleasant Nights will appeal to anyone interested in fairy tales ancient stories and folk creations Such readers will also enjoy Beecher's academically solid and erudite commentaries which unfold in a manner as light and amusing as the stories themselves

The American Antiquarian and Oriental Journal Stephen Denison Peet,1896 Sociogenetic Perspectives on Internalization Brian D. Cox,Cynthia Lightfoot,2013-05-13 The issue of how the external world becomes part of the behavioral repertoire of children has been important to psychology from its very beginning preoccupying theorists from Sigmund Freud to George Herbert Mead But ever since Lev Vygotsky claimed that every function in a child's activity appears first as a process in the social realm between individuals and moves to a process that individual children can accomplish relatively independently there has been increased debate as to exactly how this process of internalization happens In contemporary developmental psychology the process of internalization has become so important that the time is ripe for a book which explicitly addresses the problems it poses Although the chapters in this book deal with age groups from preschool to adolescence and topics from mathematics to storytelling and from taking risks to making moral judgments there is one core question which unifies them all If the growing competence of a child is truly sociogenetic if it truly grows out from is supported by and is dependent upon the social where is that competence truly located Bearing a variety of labels cultural historical co constructionist dialectical contextualist narrative hermeneutic and discursive psychologies and analytic constructs scaffolding proleptic instruction participation appropriation and situated activity contemporary perspectives are showing clear signs of development and differentiation This volume's goal is to help bring some order to these differences without denying either the usefulness of this variety or the importance of the differences among perspectives This new book illuminates these differences by collecting a select sample of theory and research into one of two major sections The first section includes work undertaken from a social interactive perspective The overarching aim is to identify processes of child child or child adult interactions as they emerge over relatively short periods of time Typically the methodology involves the microanalysis of videotaped interactions Development is situated literally within social interactions which are considered directly responsible for children's development The second section provides a sample of work representing a symbolic action perspective This one is not oriented toward social interactions but toward the symbolic meanings that they express and that children impose on them The dominant methodology is interpretive or hermeneutic and the goal is to articulate the figurative metaphoric processes and narrative structures that inhabit social actions and from which they draw their meaning and coherence
