Healing Onyeka Godfrey,2025-08-13 There is a strange pressure in our world to recover quickly A relationship ends and we re told to bounce back A business fails and we re urged to get back out there Loss comes and everyone seems to have a stopwatch in their hand waiting to see how fast we can stand again But real healing doesn t happen in a sprint it happens in quiet moments in deep breaths in days when you feel like you ve made no progress at all but your soul is slowly mending beneath the surface Rise Again Without The Rush invites you to stop measuring your comeback by speed and instead measure it by depth Here you ll learn the art of unhurried restoration how to create space in your life to process rebuild and reimagine without guilt or external pressure This is not about laziness it s about reclaiming the dignity of your own timeline Through practical steps reflective prompts and stories that feel like conversations with a trusted friend this book will guide you to rebuild in a way that feels natural not forced You ll discover how to protect your energy during transition how to resist the urge to prove you re okay before you actually are and how to trust that your pace is exactly right for the life you re creating next Your next chapter doesn t need to begin with fireworks It can begin with a single deep breath a gentle step forward and the quiet confidence that you re rising not because the world demands it but because your heart is ready

Prosecutor-led diversion unveiled: Lessons and insights from implementing Project Reset in two jurisdictions Venita Embry, Chase Montagnet, Kristin Bechtel, Christopher Inkpen, Alexia Walker, 2025-05-13

Research suggests diversionary practices for first-time low-level offenses can substantially reduce subsequent criminal legal system involvement and minimize long-term collateral consequences. Diversion programs are one way for prosecutors to leverage their discretion to divert individuals charged with lower-level offenses to community-based services to address underlying behaviors and needs. This paper focuses on the implementation of one type of diversion program, Project Reset, in two jurisdictions: Jefferson County, Alabama, and Westchester County, New York. Project Reset is a pre-filing diversion model in which a prosecutor establishes an office-wide policy to divert people charged with certain offenses to participate in a brief community-based behavioral intervention rather than undergo traditional case processing. RTI International partnered with prosecutors' offices in these two counties to evaluate their adoption of Reset. Using data from site visits, stakeholder interviews, and monthly program check-ins, this paper highlights the initial implementation of Reset in these two jurisdictions, describes program challenges and successes, and provides recommendations for other jurisdictions interested in implementing Reset in their communities. Although both sites faced challenges, our findings elucidate notable success in the initial implementation of the program, with promising results seen in stakeholder buy-in, program participation, and providing services to individuals while promoting accountability.

A New Heart-- a New Start Neva Coyle, 1992

There are times perhaps brought on by trying circumstances when many believers would like to throw up their hands and cry to God for a chance to start over. For one, it may be a personal moral failure that has crippled their relationship with Jesus Christ; others feel the frustration of failing to make positive changes in their lives. Some have simply grown tired of the conflict between worldliness and godliness; an illness or personal crisis or foolish decision has left others downcast. Whatever the reason, the need of a fresh start, a new beginning, becomes acute. If you can identify with any of these situations and could use new spiritual and emotional freshness, this devotional study is for you. Using the experience and prayer of David found in Psalm 51 as a basis you can have a new start and a fresh clean heart King David s moral failure did not end his story Faced with a crisis of spiritual surrender David pressed through failure and found a new higher place Create in me a pure heart O God and renew a steadfast spirit within me Drawing upon the resources that God has provided even the greatest difficulties can be transformed through a deeper surrender to Christ and an encounter with His grace at a depth before unknown Designed to fit easily into a busy schedule day by day this study will help you find new inclination new motivation and new direction to live a life set apart for God New Music Review and Church Music Review ,1906
