The Water Environment Of Cities:

The Water Environment of Cities Lawrence A. Baker, 2009-04-21 The concept for the Water Environment of Cities arose from a workshop Green 1 Cities Blue Waters workshop held in 2006 The workshop assembled experts from engineering planning economics law hydrology aquatic ecology geomorphology and other disciplines to present research findings and identify key new ideas on the urban water environment At a lunch discussion near the end of the workshop several of us came to the recognition that despite having considerable expertise in a narrow discipline none of us had a vision of the urban water environment as a whole We were as in the parable blind men at opposite ends of the elephant knowing a great deal about the parts but not understanding the whole We quickly recognized the need to develop a book that would integrate this knowledge to create this vision The goal was to develop a book that could be used to teach a complete multidisciplinary course The Urban Water Environment but could also be used as a supplemental text for courses on urban ecosystems urban design landscape architecture water policy water quality management and watershed management The book is also valuable as a reference source for water professionals stepping outside their arena of disciplinary expertise The Water Environment of Cities is the first book to use a holistic interdisciplinary approach to examine the urban water environment We have attempted to portray a holistic vision built around the concept of water as a core element of cities Water has multiple roles municipal water supply aquatic habitat landscape aesthetics and recreation Increasingly urban water is reused serving multiple purposes The Water-Sustainable City David Lewis Feldman, 2017-01-27 Cities place enormous pressures on freshwater quality and availability because they are often located some distance from the water sources needed by their populations This fact compels planners to build infrastructure to divert water from increasingly distant outlying rural areas thus disrupting their social fabric and environment In addition increasing urbanization due to population growth economic change and sprawl places huge burdens upon the institutions as well as the infrastructure that deliver protect and treat urban water This book assesses the challenges facing the world's cities in providing reliable safe and plentiful supplies through infrastructural economic legal and political strategies Environmental Policy and Reform in China Jinnan Wang, Hongqiang Jiang, Gang Yan, 2021-11-30 The book is the collection of the latest research results from Chinese Academy of Environmental Planning in environmental policy and reform during the past years mainly related to ecological compensation the emission trading the environment audit carbon tax environment friendly city environmental health economic policy in medical waste scattered coal treatment subsidies environmental policy efficiency analysis environmental industry statistics environmental performance evaluation green fiscal and taxation policy etc presenting the latest achievements developments and research trends in this field Made in Australia Richard Weller, Julian Bolleter, 2013 How do you creatively plan for a population of 62 million by 2100 Australia's current major city planning frameworks only account for an extra 5.5 million people Whether we want a Big Australia or not Australia's 21st century is likely to see rapid and continual growth and if we want liveable high functioning cities and regional centres we need to think outside the box Richard Weller and Julian Bolleter Australian Urban Design Research Centre offer optimistic and creative solutions for the future with one imperative what we build this century will make or break our country

Water Sensitive Cities Carol Howe, Cynthia Mitchell, 2011-10-20 Today's urban water managers are faced with an unprecedented set of issues that call for a different approach to urban water management These include the urgent changes needed to respond to climate change population growth growing resource constraints and rapidly increasing global urbanization Not only are these issues difficult to address but they are facing us in an environment that is increasingly unpredictable and complex Although innovative new tools are now available to water professionals to address these challenges solving the water problems of tomorrow cannot be done by the water professionals alone Instead the city of the future whether in the developed or developing world must integrate water management planning and operations with other city services to meet the needs of humans and the environment in a dramatically superior manner Water Sensitive Cities has been developed from selected papers from 2009 Singapore Water Week Planning for Sustainable Solutions and also papers taken from other IWA events It pulls together material that supports the water professionals need for useful and up to date material Authors Carol Howe UNESCO IHE Institute for Water Education The Netherlands Cynthia Mitchell University of Technology Sydney Australia
