

QAGHAQ TAL-HMIRA

Qaghaq tal-hmira are sweet ring cakes made from enriched, sweetened bread dough and probably originated in bakeries when there was some extra bread dough. The flavours added to the bread dough are typically Maltese and include crushed aniseeds, grated orange and lemon peel. Some cooks like to add some ground cloves for a pleasant warm flavour that is especially good in winter.

The method below involves first making yeasty bread dough/batter that is enriched with buttery, sweet dough after the first proving. The two different types of dough are then kneaded well to mix them together and work the gluten in the flour.

600g plain flour
1 sachet instant yeast
100g butter
100g castor sugar
2 heaped teaspoons aniseeds
– lightly crushed
½ teaspoon ground cloves (optional)
The grated rind of 1 orange and 2 tangerines

To finish

1 egg
Sesame seeds

Put 300g of the flour into a large bowl and stir in the yeast. Make a well in the centre, pour in 400ml tepid water and beat to make a thick, smooth batter. Leave this to rise and bubble for about 1½ hours in a warmish, draught free place. In the meantime, rub the butter into the rest of the flour, stir in the sugar, aniseeds, grated peel and the ground cloves (if using). Put this to one side.

After at least an hour and a half, add the buttery, flavoured and sweetened flour to the sloppy dough and knead in to make a smooth elastic dough. If it is too dry add a little juice from the zested fruits, whereas if it is too sticky to knead, simply add a little more flour and carry on kneading for about 10 minutes. Then dust the dough lightly in a little flour and leave it to rise in a warm place.

Once the dough has doubled in size (about an hour to an hour and a half), knock it back and knead till the dough is elastic again. Then break off Ping-Pong ball sized pieces of dough, roll each one into a thin sausage and press the ends together to make a ring. Lightly beat the egg with a tablespoon of water and brush each ring with it, then sprinkle them quite generously with the sesame seeds.

Preheat the oven to gas mark 6/200°C. Leave the little rings to rise in a warm place till doubled in size – about half an hour. Then bake them in the preheated oven for about 15 minutes or till golden brown.

N.B. Make the hole in the middle of the rings of raw dough quite big otherwise it will close up in the oven.

The Making of Heritage Camila Del Marmol, Marc Morell, Jasper Chalcraft, 2014-11-20 This volume explores the process of heritage making and its relation to the production of touristic places examining several case studies around the world Most existing literature on heritage and tourism centers either on its managerial aspects the tourist experience or issues related to inequality and identity politics This volume instead establishes theoretical links between analyses of heritage and the production and reproduction of places in the context of the global tourist trade The approach adopted here is to explore the production of heritage as a complex process shaped by local and global discourses that can have a deep impact on several policies and legislations Heritage itself has now become not only a global discourse but also a global practice which may eventually lead to the use of heritage as a field for hegemony From these perspectives heritage making may be incorporated in the world economy mainly through the global tourism trade The chapters in this book stress the need for identifying the intrinsic political implications of these processes relocating their study in political economic and social settings Combined with a diversified set of theoretical approaches and research methods guided by a common thematic rationale The Making of Heritage is at the forefront of current debates about heritage

The Economy of Modern Malta Paul Caruana Galizia, 2016-12-20 This book provides the first wide ranging account of the Maltese economy in the modern era from colonialism to European Union membership It sets arguments about growth and development and the impact and legacy of colonization against detailed histories of agriculture manufacturing and trade and different economic policy regimes It is based on volumes of newly collected archival evidence and the latest thinking in economic history By extending coverage up to the present the book explains how one of the world's smallest nation states achieved lasting economic development quintupling its per capita income level since 1970 when many other postcolonial and advanced economies stagnated
