Builders of the Vision Daniel Cardoso Llach, 2015-06-05 Builders of the Vision traces the intellectual history and contemporary practices of Computer Aided Design CAD and Numerical Control since the years following World War II until today. Drawing from primary archival and ethnographic sources it identifies and documents the crucial ideas shaping digital design technologies since the first numerical control and CAD systems were developed under US Air Force research contracts at MIT between 1949 and 1970. The cybernetic theorization of design as a human machine endeavor the vision of computers as perfect slaves taking care of the drudgery of physical labor the techno social utopias of computers as vehicles of democracy and social change the entrepreneurial urge towards design and construction integration and the managerial ideologies enabling today's transnational geographies of practice. Examining the contrasting and often conflicting sensibilities that converge into CAD and BIM discourses globalism utopianism entrepreneurialism and architects desires for aesthetic liberation Builders of the Vision shows that software systems and numerically controlled machines are not merely instruments or tools but rather versatile metaphors reconfiguring conceptions of design materiality work and what it means to be creative. Crucially by revealing software systems as socio technical infrastructures that mediate the production of our built environments author Daniel Cardoso Llach builds a strong case for the fields of architecture media and science and technology studies to critically engage with both the politics and the poetics of technology in design. Builders of the Vision will be essential reading for scholars and practitioners across disciplines interested in the increasingly complex socio technical systems that go into imagining and building of our artifacts buildings and cities
