Other	20%	20%	11%	19%	28%

India is the largest democracy in the world, with over 914 million people voting in the 2019 election for the Lok Sabha, the parliament of the federal government. In the early years of Indian independence, from the first election in 1950-52 through the eighth Lok Sabha in 1980, each election resulted in one party winning the majority of seats. However, starting with the 1984 election, the party with the largest number of seats failed to win more than half of the total seats. This trend was eventually broken by the Shiv Sena Janata Party, which _____.

 What choice most effectively uses data from the graph to Rebuttle the claim?

- ☐ used first holding the second most seats among the top 5 parties in parliament in 2004 and 2009 to holding a majority of seats in 2014 and 2019.
- ☐ resulted in highest percentage of seats the same year that the Indian National Congress lost its overall percentage of seats over the same time period.
- ☐ won a lower percentage of seats in the 2009 election than in the 2004 election.
- ☐ lost a lower percentage of seats than the Indian National Congress in 2004 but a higher percentage of seats than the Indian National Congress in 1980.

International Broadcasting and Its Contested Role in Australian Statecraft Geoff Heriot, 2023-03-14 This book offers an insightful reappraisal of international broadcasting as discursive rather than soft power in service of democratic statecraft This at a time when issues of transnational media the credibility of news and the perils of disinformation and information warfare figure worryingly in public discourse Reflecting the perspective of middle power Australia author Geoff Heriot locates the strategic utility of multiplatform international broadcasting with reference to contemporary theories of soft hard smart power projection and intercultural communication He applies a fresh model of strategic analysis to the political history of Radio Australia examining the various external and internal variables that resulted in its flawed success in political communication during the late Cold War period

Civic Engagement in Australian Democracy Sarah Murray, Lachlan Umbers, 2025-05-13 The Australian democratic system has long been regarded as one of the most stable and predictable in the world with an entrenched two party duopoly compulsory voting ensuring high levels of electoral participation and relatively high levels of satisfaction with the democratic process Yet the ways Australians engage with and participate in their democracy have shifted substantially in recent times While a record proportion of Australians are now on the electoral roll less than 1% belong to a political party and the share of Australians that have always voted for the same party in Federal elections has declined from 72% in 1967 to 37% in 2022 Turnout in the 2022 Federal Election fell below 90% for the first time since the introduction of compulsory voting in 1924 Over 50% of voters cast their ballots early in 2022 up from around 10% in 2004 The advent of social media has afforded Australians a range of opportunities for political engagement but has also given rise to serious concerns surrounding the dissemination of misinformation And Australians have also recently been afforded several historically rare opportunities for direct participation in the lawmaking process particularly the 2017 same sex marriage plebiscite and the 2023 referendum on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice to Parliament These developments give rise to a wide range of deep difficult questions for Australian democracy many of which have been under explored What for instance does the failure of the referendum on the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Voice to Parliament mean for Australian democracy What sorts of opportunities ought to be afforded to Australians for direct participation in government How might climate change impact Australian democracy in the coming decades How might the rise in early voting impact the character of Australian democracy What opportunities do Australians have for engagement in civic life and what obstacles do they face in exercising them This edited collection brings together specialists in the democratic process to consider such questions alongside many others Moreover the collection is uniquely interdisciplinary insofar as the contributors are drawn from a diverse range of fields law philosophy political science and sociology The chapters each help bring us a broader understanding of civic participation in Australian democracy in order that we might evaluate the status quo and gauge where it might be headed in the future
