at her The Portier liked Harmony in spite of the early morning practicing she looked like a singer at the opera for whom he cherished a hidden attachment The singer had never seen him but it was for her he wore the mustache bandage Perhaps some day hopefully One must be ready The Portier gave Harmony a tiny candle and Harmony held out his tip the five Hellers of custom But the Portier was keen and Rosa was a niece of his wife and talked more than she should He refused the tip with a gesture Bitte Fraulein he said through the bandage It is for me a pleasure to admit you And perhaps if the Fraulein is cold a basin of soup The Portier was not pleasant to the eye His nightshirt was open over his hairy chest and his feet were bare to the stone floor But to Harmony that lonely night he was beautiful She tried to speak and could not but she held out her hand in impulsive gratitude and the Portier in his best manner bent over and kissed it As she reached the curve of the stone staircase carrying her tiny candle the Portier was following her with his eyes She was very like the girl of the opera The clang of the door below and the rattle of the chain were comforting to Harmony s ears From the safety of the darkened salon she peered out into the garden again but no skulking figure detached itself from the shadows and the gate remained for a marvel closed Taken from The Street of Seven Stars written by Mary Roberts Rinehart
