Terris,2016-12-08 This book examines the use of third party mediation as a conflict resolution method In an attempt to explain why some but not all conflicts are mediated this work argues that diverse conflict structures are inherently different in their susceptibility to mediation attempts By offering a systematic method for measuring the transformability of conflict structures this book contributes to our understanding of the sufficient and necessary conditions for mediation In addition the study offers an analytical framework for the examination of mediation as a trilateral rational bargaining process Although the general concept of mediation as a three person game is not new most studies focus on either the disputants perspectives or the mediator s perspective In contrast this study integrates the perspectives of all three parties The framework links the different stages involved in the whole process of mediation from the onset of mediation through the mediation strategies used to the outcome rather than focusing on one particular aspect The book applies the framework to two case studies the conflict between Israel and Egypt and the conflict between India and Pakistan and provides new insights into these conflicts from a mediation perspective In general the model developed here provides a framework for systematically assessing conflicts and the options available to those involved in the mediation process This book will be of much interest to students of conflict resolution mediation war and conflict studies Asian politics Middle Eastern politics and IR in general     The Functions of International Conflict Kalim Siddiqui,1975     Negotiation in International Conflict Deborah Goodwin,2014-04-08 This work explores the application and structure of negotiation within existing international conflicts and assesses the effectiveness or otherwise of such forms of dispute resolution It examines the role of negotiation and the skills required by any practitioner in the field

The State and International Relations John M. Hobson,2000-04-27 This book first published in 2000 provides students with an overview of the main theories of the state found in International Relations Many International Relation scholars are proclaiming the state to be dead while others lament the lack of an adequate theory of the state in International Relations John Hobson seeks to resolve this confusion by introducing readers to state theory arguing that existing theories of the state are limited and proposing a framework based around the agent structure debate The book surveys realist liberal Marxist constructivist and neo Weberian approaches to the state and places each perspective s view of the state in relation to its theory of International Relations as a whole It offers readers a unique introduction to state theory in International Relations and will be of interest to students and scholars of sociology and politics as well as International Relations

International Conflict, Defense Spending and the Size of Countries Alberto Alesina,Enrico Spolaore,1996 This paper provides a formal model of endogenous country formation and of choice of defense spending in a world with international conflict The model is consistent with three observations First secessions and more generally break up of countries should follow a reduction in the likelihood of international conflict Second the number of regional conflicts between smaller countries may increase as a result of the break up of larger countries Third the size of the peace divided i e the reduction in the defense spending in a more peaceful world is limited by the process of country break up
