

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a sunset or sunrise. The sky is a gradient of purple, blue, and orange. A thin, bright yellow line, possibly a contrail or a light beam, stretches diagonally across the sky from the middle right towards the bottom right. The bottom of the cover features a dark silhouette of a mountain range.

Making Global Society Barry Buzan, 2023-08-10 Barry Buzan proposes a new approach to making International Relations a truly global discipline that transcends both Eurocentrism and comparative civilisations He narrates the story of humankind as a whole across three eras using its material conditions and social structures to show how global society has evolved Deploying the English School's idea of primary institutions and setting their story across three domains interpolity transnational and interhuman this book conveys a living historical sense of the human story whilst avoiding the overabstraction of many social science grand theories Buzan sharpens the familiar story of three main eras in human history with the novel idea that these eras are separated by turbulent periods of transition This device enables a radical retelling of how modernity emerged from the late 18th century He shows how the concept of global society can build bridges connecting International Relations Global Historical Sociology and Global World History

Language and Religion Nino Haustein, 2013-07-31 Seminar paper from the year 2013 in the subject Sociology Communication grade 1.3 Dresden Technical University Institute of English and American Studies course Introduction to Sociolinguistics language English abstract This seminar paper deals with links and relations between language and religion Exemplarily it takes a closer look at the connections of language and the Baha i Faith in general and in particular in Germany Therefore the paper focuses on the historical development of this world religion beginning in 19th century Iran its evolution towards a global faith and its establishment in Germany in the early years of the 20th century This paper is also going to deal with religious teachings that influence the ethnic racial social and linguistic structure of this young world faith Furthermore an insight into statistics on the ethnical racial and cultural backgrounds of the global and the German Baha i community respectively as well as conclusions about their linguistic composition will be provided In the end details about a survey conducted from February 06th 2013 to March 17th 2013 will be presented and elaborated on Only little research has been conducted in the field of language and the Baha i Religion at least from a sociolinguistic perspective Therefore this paper serves as a good opportunity to deal with this challenge

Global Pentecostalism: An Inquiry into the Cultural Dimensions of Globalization Matthias Deininger, 2012-11-02 Master s Thesis from the year 2012 in the subject Sociology Religion grade 5 5 University of Bern language English abstract The birth and rapid global expansion of Pentecostal movements has led to widespread recognition of Pentecostalism as a major force in the Christian globalization enterprise and a significant subset within the broader globalization movement A main thread running through the study of global Pentecostalism therefore is its adaptability to the modern world system and concomitantly its increasing visibility in the public sphere Underlying the assertion of cultural adaptability is the assumption that the world s economic political and other societal structures have shifted and continue to shift and that Pentecostalism as a religious orientation has the ability to accommodate or maybe even leverage those shifts Rather than just responding to globalization processes Pentecostalism acts on and actively shapes the dynamics of globalization and thus can be viewed as yet another powerful force in the re sacralization or re enchantment of the world cf Csordas 2011 Put differently Pentecostalism seems to be flexible and resilient enough to adapt to and be at home with both modernity and its elusive successor post modernity Anderson 2004 285 The central aim of this thesis is to understand Pentecostal expansion within the theoretical framework of globalization and in terms of its internal religious characteristics In my opinion Pentecostalism can serve as a heuristic entry point to understand the complexity of cultural globalization processes more generally With this end in mind and for this purpose Pentecostalism is regarded as an active agent of globalization as a transnational movement characterized by fluidity innovation and practicality within the context of an increasingly complex and plural world order particularly in terms of the wider discourses on globalization
