Conservation Stephen M. Redpath,R. J. Gutiérrez,Kevin A. Wood,Juliette C. Young,2015-05-07 Conflicts over the conservation of biodiversity are increasing and are serious obstacles to wildlife conservation efforts worldwide Changing patterns in land use over exploitation pollution climate change and the threat posed by invasive species all challenge the way we currently maintain and protect biodiversity from the local management of single species to the international management of resources Integrating approaches from different academic disciplines policy makers and practitioners this volume offers a radically new cross disciplinary multi scale approach to deal with conflicts Groundbreaking strategies for conservation are analysed and a large section of the book is devoted to exploring case studies of conflict from around the world Aimed primarily at academics researchers and students from disciplines relating to conservation ecology natural resources management and environmental governance this book will be equally valuable to conservation NGOs and practitioners and the policy community at national and international levels Human-Wildlife Interactions Beatrice Frank,Jenny A.

Congress,1990 Behaviour and Management of European Ungulates Rory Putman, Marco Apollonio, 2014 Ungulates are an extraordinarily important group of animals worldwide at many levels in their remarkable biodiversity in many cases as keystone species with a disproportionate effect on the functioning of the wider ecological systems of which they form a part or as dominant species acting as ecological engineers and as a prey base for endangered or expanding populations of large carnivores They are also important culturally and economically as a major source of protein in subsistence cultures and because of their wide exploitation in recreational hunting which is still a major form of land use in many countries A number of aspects of the balance of cost and benefit of ungulates and their management in Europe are considered Through a synthesis of the underlying biology and a comparison of the management techniques adopted in different countries management approaches which seem effective within their respective circumstances are explored Status, Conservation Needs and Reintroduction of the Lynx (Lynx Lynx) in Europe Urs Breitenmoser, Christine Breitenmoser-Würsten, Council of Europe, 1990 Acta Theriologica ,1997 The Journal of Wildlife Management ,1993 Applied Ecology Abstracts ,1976 Ecology Abstracts ,2000 Coverage 1982 current updated monthly This database covers current ecology research across a wide range of disciplines reflecting recent advances in light of growing evidence regarding global environmental change and destruction Major areas of subject coverage include Algae lichens Animals Annelids Aquatic ecosystems Arachnids Arid zones Birds from both Bandkeramik and later Neolithic settlements over a wide area of central Europe A discussion of the interpretation and hypotheses about domestic animal production Wild Sheep and Goats and Their Relatives David M. Shackleton, 1997 Wild caprinae including sheep and goats are an extremely valuable group of mammals While most live in mountains some inhabit desert grasslands tropical forests or even arctic tundra They range in size from the 30kg goral to the 350kg musk ox and display a variety of horn shapes and sizes as well as coat and body coloration They are highly prized by hunters on account of their horns and their coats Today despite their important domestic relations many wild caprinae are in danger of being lost forever over 70 of caprinae taxa are threatened and over 30 endangered or critical The main threats to them are over harvesting habitat loss and resource competition from livestock Some face an additional threat from trophy hunters Despite this however conservation legislation is either absent or more often poorly enforced This action plan explores the value of caprinae to biodiversity the threats facing the members of the species and makes recommendations to reverse current trends It also emphasizes the importance to caprinae conservation and survival of close collaboration among all parties involved in wildlife conservation including local peoples and hunting organizations governments scientists and academic institutions Compte Rendu de la Conférence Circompolaire Sur L'écologie Du Nord, 1977
