Freedom of the Seas and US Foreign Policy Connor Donahue, 2024-04-05 This book critically analyzes US political military strategy by arguing that freedom of the seas discourse is fundamentally unfit for an era of maritime great power competition The work conducts a genealogical intellectual history of freedom of the seas discourse in US foreign policy to show how the concept has evolved over time to facilitate American control over the global ocean space It concludes that the contemporary discourse works to establish the high seas as an arena free from claims of sovereignty so that the United States as the presumed unrivaled naval power can intervene globally on behalf of its national interests. However, since sea control strategies depend on a preponderance of material force as the United States wanes in relative material capability, it becomes less able to support political military strategies predicated on the assumption of global naval dominance. The book provides a timely commentary on the current geopolitical competition between the United States and China and critiques the US approach toward China in the maritime domain in order to highlight potential avenues of foreign policy action that may enable the two countries to mitigate the risk of conflict. This book will be of much interest to students of naval history, maritime security, US foreign policy and international relations.

International Relations' Last Synthesis? J. Samuel Barkin, Laura Sjoberg, 2019-02-12. Many scholars intentionally or unintentionally have entangled constructivisms and critical theories in problematic ways either by assigning a critical theoretical politics to constructivisms or by assuming the appropriateness of constructivist epistemology and methods for critical theorizing. IR's Last Synthesis makes the argument that these connections mirror IR's grand theoretical syntheses of the 1980s and 1990s and have similar constraining effects on the possibilities of IR theory. They have been made without adequate reflection in contradiction to the base assumptions of each theoretical perspective and to the detriment of both knowledge accumulation about global politics and theoretical rigor in disciplinary IR. By rejecting its over simple syntheses this book hews a road toward reviving IR theorizing.

Historical Memory and Foreign Policy Lina Klymenko, Marco Siddi, 2022-10-13. This book explores the uses of the past in foreign policy making. It outlines why and how political leaders refer to historical events in contemporary foreign policy discourses, the goals they hope to achieve and the sometimes unintended foreign policy consequences of their ab use of historical memory. Furthermore, it looks at how political leaders shape domestic collective memories in pursuit of their international agendas and highlight historical events leaders forget, reinterpret or obscure through selective narratives. The chapters explore a variety of theoretical concepts that shed light on how memory and foreign policy are linked in a complex and reciprocal way. The following mechanisms are discussed: the application of historical analogies, the construction of historical narratives, the creation of memory sites, the marginalisation and forgetting of the past and the securitisation of historical memory. Through the use of a number of methodological approaches such as discourse analysis, narrative analysis and content analysis of securitising moves and a broad range of qualitative and quantitative data (newspaper articles, policy documents, commemorative speeches, interviews with policymakers and the observation of memory sites), the contributions highlight the interdependence of the international, national, regional and local dimensions of memory practices and history writing. Although they mostly focus on national case studies of foreign policy making, they also reveal how representations of historical events evolve through interaction between political actors at the international level of analysis. The collection originated in the section entitled Exploring the Link between Historical Memory and Foreign Policy at the annual Pan-European Conference of the European International Studies Association EISA 2018 held in Prague, the Czech Republic.
