Universities Under Fire Steven Jones, 2022-06-27 This book explores the ways in which the contemporary university is talked about and talks about itself Focusing on English higher education Jones documents how an under confident sector internalised the language and logic of government policy and individual institutions then set about normalising competition and gaming short term advantage at the expense of collectively serving a common good A flawed marketisation project was attended and sustained by hostile discourses with purportedly woke universities becoming a soft target for right leaning politicians and media commentators and campuses reluctant battlefields for manufactured culture wars Within this context integrity deficits soon arose universities bragged about diversity and social responsibility without commensurate action global ambitions went unmatched by local accountability senior management grew more distant and self rewarding as contractual precarity increased for frontline staff Jones does not call for a return to any golden age of academic self rule Rather he warns that without self assured new stories firmly underpinned by more transparent and moral forms of governance universities risk further compromising their standing as trusted public institutions at the very moment they are needed most

The Transpacific Experiment Matt Sheehan, 2019-08-13 A timely vital account of California's unique relationship with China told through the exploits of the entrepreneurs activists and politicians driving transformations with international implications Tensions between the world's superpowers are mounting in Washington D C and Beijing Yet the People's Republic of China and the state of California have built deep and interdependent socioeconomic exchanges that reverberate across the globe making California and China a microcosm of the most important international relationship of the twenty first century In The Transpacific Experiment journalist and China analyst Matt Sheehan chronicles the real people who are making these connections Sheehan tells the story of a Southern Californian mayor who believes a Chinese electric bus factory will save his town from meth labs and skinheads He follows a Chinese AI researcher who leaves Google to compete with his former employer from behind the Great Firewall Sheehan joins a tour bus of wealthy Chinese families shopping for homes in the Bay Area revealing disgruntled neighbors and raising important questions about California's own narratives around immigration and the American Dream. Sheehan's on the ground reporting reveals movie sets in the Hollywood of China Chinese funded housing projects in San Francisco Chinese immigrants who support Donald Trump and more. Each of these stories lays bare the new reality of twenty first century superpowers the closer they get to one another the more personal their frictions become. Cuts right to the heart of the relationship between Silicon Valley and China the tangled history the current tensions and the uncertain future a must read Kai Fu Lee former president of Google China and founder of Sinovation Ventures An Ordinary Age Rainesford Stauffer, 2021-05-04 Best Book of 2021 Esquire Featured on Good Morning America A meticulous cartography of how outer forces shape young people's inner lives Esquire Best Books of 2021 In conversation with young adults and experts alike journalist Rainesford Stauffer explores how the incessant pursuit of a best life has put extraordinary pressure on young adults today across our personal and professional lives and how ordinary meaningful experiences may instead be the foundation of a fulfilled and contented life. Young adulthood the time of our lives when theoretically anything can happen and the pressure is on to make sure everything does. Social media has long been the scapegoat for a generation of unhappy young people but perhaps the forces working beneath us wage stagnation student debt perfectionism and inflated costs of living have a larger more detrimental impact on the world we post to our feeds. An Ordinary Age puts young adults at the center as Rainesford Stauffer examines our obsessive need to live and post our bestlife and the culture that has defined that life on narrow and often unattainable terms. From the now required slate of often unpaid internships to the loneliness epidemic to the stress of finding yourself through school work and hobbies the world is demanding more of young people these days than ever before. And worse it's leaving little room for our generation to ask the big questions about who they want to be and what makes a life feel meaningful. Perhaps we're losing sight of the things that fulfill us strong relationships real roots in a community and the ability to question how we want our lives to look and feel even when that's different from what we see on the Gram. Stauffer makes the case that many of our most formative young adult moments are the ordinary ones finding our people and sticking with them learning to care for ourselves on our own terms and figuring out who we are when the other stuff the GPAs job titles the filters fall away The Yale Alumni Weekly, 1921 Buy This, Not That Sam Dogen, 2022-07-19
