Soon Charlotte Grimshaw:

Soon Charlotte Grimshaw, 2012-10-05 Clever and intriguing this novel from an award winning author explores the arid morality of the privileged During the long summer holiday the Lampton and Hallwright families gather in a large beach house belonging to Prime Minister David Hallwright and his wife Roza The weather is perfect and outwardly all is well but the harmony is disturbed when Simon Lampton s brother Ford arrives for a visit Ford casts a cold eye over the company barely disguising his contempt for David Hallwright To add to Simon s discomfort a young man called Arthur Weeks makes contact asking about Simon s secret past love affair while Roza tells her small son Johnnie a continuous story about a group of fantasy creatures a story that contains uncomfortable parallels with their current lives When Simon agrees to meet secretly with Arthur Weeks the result will threaten the security of them all Charlotte Grimshaw s exhilaratingly gripping and clever narrative traces the lives of its beautiful people moral imbeciles in Ford s words as they jostle for position in their leader s court This humane and capacious novel generous and faithful to its characters in ways that they are not to each other articulates the ancient idea that to be moral is an act of consciousness an effort of will A stand alone novel that is also a sequel to The Night Book and a continuation of the Simon Lampton story first touched on in Opportunity and Singularity

The Bad Seed Charlotte Grimshaw, 2019-03-19 Now combined into a major TV drama these two connected novels by award winning writer Charlotte Grimshaw take an unflinching look at politics and power contemporary New Zealand society and the arid morality of the privileged In The Night Book doctor and party donor Simon Lampton is drawn to Roza Hallwright though he can t quite put his finger on why She leads a quiet comfortable orderly life with her politician husband David and her two stepchildren But this peaceful existence is about to be changed forever In the next few months there will be an election and if the polls are correct Roza will become the Prime Minister s wife She is relatively calm about the prospect but meeting Simon will bring turmoil to both their lives In Soon the Lampton family has come to spend a long hot summer at the Hallwrights large beach house The weather is perfect and outwardly all is well but the harmony is disturbed when Simon Lampton s brother Ford arrives for a visit Ford casts a cold eye over the company barely disguising his contempt for David Hallwright While Roza tells her young son made up stories that reveal uncomfortable truths about their current lives Simon will tell stories that conceal the truth about his Gripping clever and moving these two novels are an intensely humane look at the choices people make Neoliberalism and Cultural Transition in New Zealand Literature, 1984-2008 Jennifer Lawn, 2015-11-25 Through a literary lens Neoliberalism and Cultural Transition in New Zealand Literature 1984 2008 Market Fictions examines the ways in which the reprise of market based economics has impacted the forms of social exchange and cultural life in a settler colonial context Jennifer Lawn proposes that postcolonial literary studies needs to take more account of the way in which the new configuration of dominance increasingly gathered under the umbrella term of neoliberalism works in concert with rather than against assertions of cultural identity on the part of historically subordinated groups The pre eminence of new right economics over the past three decades has raised a conundrum for writers on the left while neoliberalism has tended to undermine collective social action it has also fostered expressions of identity in the form of cultural capital which minority communities can exploit for economic gain Neoliberalism and Cultural Transition in New Zealand Literature 1984 2008 advocates for reading practices that balance the appeals of culture against the structuring forces of social class and the commodification of identity while not losing sight of the specific aesthetic qualities of literary fiction Jennifer Lawn demonstrates the value of this approach in a wide ranging account of New Zealand literature Movements towards decolonization in a bicultural society are read within the context of a marginal post industrial economy that was in many ways a test case for radical free market reforms Through a study of politically engaged writing across a range of genres by both Maori and non Maori authors the New Zealand experience shows in high relief the twinned dynamics of a decline in the ideal of social egalitarianism and the corresponding rise of the idea of culture as a transformative force in economic and civic life tending ultimately to blur the distinction between these spheres altogether This work includes well recognized authors such as Alan Duff Patricia Grace Witi Ihimaera Eleanor Catton and Maurice Gee but also introduces a number of non canonical or emergent writers whose work is discussed in detail for the first time in this volume The result is a distinctive literary history of a turbulent period of social and economic change

The Whole Intimate Mess Holly Walker, 2017-06-12 I began to pull the threads of my experience back together Instead of divergent stories about public failure private torment and postnatal distress I started telling myself a united story the truth or as close as I could get to it A Rhodes scholar and former Green MP Holly Walker tells the story of how she became one of New Zealand's youngest parliamentarians how motherhood intervened and how she found solace and solidarity in the writings of women This short book makes a passionate case for the role of literature in political change and personal resilience and for the importance of women's voices in the public sphere

Screening the Gothic in Australia and New Zealand Jessica Gildersleeve, Kate Cantrell, 2025-10-01 The persistent popularity of the detective narrative new obsessions with psychological and supernatural disturbances as well as the resurgence of older narratives of mystery or the Gothic all constitute a vast proportion of contemporary film and television productions New ways of watching film and television have also seen a reinvigoration of this most domestic of media But what does this domesticity of genre and media look like Down Under in the twenty first century This collection traces representations of the Gothic on both the small and large screens in Australia and New Zealand in the twenty first century It attends to the development and mutation of the Gothic in these post or neo colonial contexts concentrating on the generic innovations of this temporal and geographical focus
