Sorties into Hell Chester G. Hearn, 2003-08-30 In October 1946 Colonel Presley Rixey arrived by destroyer at Chichi Jima to repatriate 22 000 Japanese who had been bypassed during the war in the Pacific While waiting for a Marine battalion to arrive the colonel met daily with a Japanese commission assigned to assist him When asked what had happened to American prisoners on the island the Japanese hatched a story to hide the atrocities that they had committed In truth the downed flyers had been captured executed and eaten by certain senior Japanese officers This is the story of the investigation the cover up and the last hours of those Americans who disappeared into war s wilderness and whose remains were distributed to the cooking galleys of Chichi Jima Rixey s suspicion of a cover up was later substantiated by a group of Americans returning from Japan who had lived on Chichi Jima for generations It would take five months of gathering testimony to uncover all the details Thirty war criminals were eventually tried at Guam in 1947 five of whom met their fate on the gallows

Hearn,2005-09-30 Since World War II there have been no engagements between carrier air groups but flattops have been prominent and essential in every war skirmish or terrorist act that could be struck from planes at sea Carriers have political boundaries They range at will with planes that can be refueled in the air to strike targets thousands of miles inland From the improvised wooden platforms of the early 20th century to today s nuclear powered supercarriers Hearn explores how combat experience of key individuals drove the development technology and tactics of carriers in the world s navies In the early 20th century during the days of the dreadnaughts innovators in Europe and North America began to fly contraptions made from wood canvas wire and a small combustion engine Naval officers soon wondered whether these rickety bi planes could be launched from the deck of a surface vessel Trials began from jury rigged wooden platforms built upon the decks of colliers The experiments stimulated enough interest for the navies of the world to begin building better aircraft and better aircraft carriers The novelty of a ship that could carry its own airstrip anywhere on the world's oceans caught fire in the 1920s and helped induce a new arms race While the rest of the world viewed carriers as defensive weapons Japan focused on offensive capabilities and produced the finest carrier in the world by 1940 World War II would see the carrier emerge as the greatest surface ship afloat Since then no war has been fought without them So Sad to Fall in Battle Kumiko Kakehashi, 2007 The Battle of Iwo Jima has been memorialized innumerable times as the subject of countless books and motion pictures most recently Clint Eastwood's films Flags of Our Fathers and Letters from Iwo Jima and no wartime photo is more famous than Joe Rosenthal's Pulitzer Prize winning image of Marines raising the flag on Mount Suribachi Yet most Americans know only one side of this pivotal and bloody battle First published in Japan to great acclaim becoming a bestseller and a prize winner So Sad to Fall in Battle shows us the struggle through the eyes of Japanese commander Tadamichi Kuribayashi one of the most fascinating and least known figures of World War II As author Kumiko Kakehashi demonstrates Kuribayashi was far from the stereotypical fanatic Japanese warrior Unique among his country's officers he refused to risk his men's lives in suicidal banzai attacks instead creating a defensive insurgent style of combat that eventually became the Japanese standard On Iwo Jima he eschewed the special treatment due to him as an officer enduring the same difficult conditions as his men and personally walked every inch of the island to plan the positions of thousands of underground bunkers and tunnels The very flagpole used in the renowned photograph was a pipe from a complex water collection system the general himself engineered Exclusive interviews with survivors reveal that as the tide turned against him Kuribayashi displayed his true mettle Though offered a safer post on another island he chose to stay with his men fighting alongside them in a final fearless and ultimately hopeless three hour siege After thirty six cataclysmic days on Iwo Jima Kuribayashi's troops were responsible for the deaths of a third of all U S Marines killed during the entire four year Pacific conflict making him in the end America's most feared and respected foe Ironically it was Kuribayashi's own memories of his military training in America in the 1920s and his admiration for this country's rich gregarious and self reliant people that made him fear ever facing them in combat a feeling that some suspect prompted his superiors to send him to Iwo Jima where he met his fate Along with the words of his son and daughter which offer unique insight into the private man Kuribayashi's own letters cited extensively in this book paint a stirring portrait of the circumstances that shaped him So Sad to Fall in Battle tells a fascinating never before told story and introduces America as if for the first time to one of its most worthy adversaries
