Sorrow Is The Only Faithful One The Life Of Owen Dodson:

Sorrow Is the Only Faithful One James V. Hatch, 1995 A luscious read for fans of several genres James Hatch's biography of Owen Dodson is the story of a gifted poet novelist educator and director whose life was a lonely struggle with arthritis alcohol racism and homophobic prejudice Sorrow is the Only Faithful One James Vernon Hatch, 1993 Born the ninth child of a poor Brooklyn family Owen Dodson 1914-83 rose to a life of stunning achievement A scholarship student at Bates College where his classmates included John Ciardi and Edmund S Muskie Dodson went on to advanced study at Yale His poetry and first novel were widely hailed by critics and general readers during his career he wrote or directed more than 300 dramatic presentations and for twenty five years he was a professor of drama at Howard University James Hatch draws on extensive interviews with Dodson his family and his friends and on access to private papers placing Dodson in a social and literary context that will help readers understand Dodson's struggle with arthritis alcohol race and homophobic prejudice On the Performance Front C. Canning, 2015-06-30 This book argues that US theatre in the 20th century embraced the theories and practices of internationalism as a way to realize a better world and as part of the strategic reform of the theatre into a national expression Live performance theatre internationalists argued could represent and reflect the nation like no other endeavour

The Concise Oxford Companion to African American Literature William L. Andrews, Frances Smith Foster, Trudier Harris, 2001-02-15 A breathtaking achievement this Concise Companion is a suitable crown to the astonishing production in African American literature and criticism that has swept over American literary studies in the last two decades It offers an enormous range of writers from Sojourner Truth to Frederick Douglass from Zora Neale Hurston to Ralph Ellison and from Toni Morrison to August Wilson It contains entries on major works including synopses of novels such as Harriet Jacobs's Incidents in the Life of a Slave Girl Richard Wright's Native Son and Lorraine Hansberry's A Raisin in the Sun It also incorporates information on literary characters such as Bigger Thomas Coffin Ed Johnson Kunta Kinte Sula Peace as well as on character types such as Aunt Jemima Brer Rabbit John Henry Stackolee and the trickster Icons of black culture are addressed including vivid details about the lives of Muhammad Ali John Coltrane Marcus Garvey Jackie Robinson John Brown and Harriet Tubman Here too are general articles on poetry fiction and drama on autobiography slave narratives Sunday School literature and oratory as well as on a wide spectrum of related topics Compact yet thorough this handy volume gathers works from a vast array of sources from the black periodical press to women's clubs making it one of the most substantial guides available on the growing exciting world of African American literature The Lever of Riches Joel Mokyr, 1992-04-09 In a world of supercomputers genetic engineering and fiber optics technological creativity is ever more the key to economic success But why are some nations more creative than others and why do some highly innovative societies such as ancient China or Britain in the industrial revolution pass into stagnation Beginning with a fascinating concise history of technological progress Mokyr sets the background for his analysis by tracing the major inventions and innovations that have transformed society since ancient Greece and Rome. What emerges from this survey is often surprising the classical world for instance was largely barren of new technology the relatively backward society of medieval Europe bristled with inventions and the period between the Reformation and the Industrial Revolution was one of slow and unspectacular progress in technology despite the tumultuous developments associated with the Voyages of Discovery and the Scientific Revolution. What were the causes of technological creativity? Mokyr distinguishes between the relationship of inventors and their physical environment which determined their willingness to challenge nature and the social environment which determined the openness to new ideas. He discusses a long list of such factors showing how they interact to help or hinder a nation's creativity and then illustrates them by a number of detailed comparative studies examining the differences between Europe and China between classical antiquity and medieval Europe and between Britain and the rest of Europe during the industrial revolution. He examines such aspects as the role of the state the Chinese gave up a millennium wide lead in shipping to the Europeans for example when an Emperor banned large ocean going vessels the impact of science as well as religion politics and even nutrition. He questions the importance of such commonly cited factors as the spill over benefits of war the abundance of natural resources life expectancy and labor costs. Today an ever greater number of industrial economies are competing in the global market locked in a struggle that revolves around technological ingenuity. The Lever of Riches with its keen analysis derived from a sweeping survey of creativity throughout history offers telling insights into the question of how Western economies can maintain and developing nations can unlock their creative potential.

Staging Faith Craig R. Prentiss, 2014. In the years between the Harlem Renaissance and World War II African American playwrights gave birth to a vital black theater movement in the U.S. It was a movement overwhelmingly concerned with the role of religion in black identity. In a time of profound social transformation fueled by a massive migration from the rural south to the urban industrial centers of the north scripts penned by dozens of black playwrights reflected cultural tensions often rooted in class that revealed competing conceptions of religion's role in the formation of racial identity. Black playwrights pointed in quite different ways toward approaches to church scripture belief and ritual that they deemed beneficial to the advancement of the race. Their plays were important not only in mirroring theological reflection of the time but in helping to shape African American thought about religion in black communities. The religious themes of these plays were in effect arguments about the place of religion in African American lives. In Staging Faith Craig R. Prentiss illuminates the creative strategies playwrights used to grapple with religion. With a lively and engaging style the volume brings long forgotten plays to life as it chronicles the cultural and religious fissures that marked early twentieth century African American society. Craig R. Prentiss is Professor of Religious Studies at Rockhurst University in Kansas City Missouri. He is the editor of Religion and the Creation of Race and Ethnicity An Introduction New York University Press 2003. The Greenwood Encyclopedia of African American Literature: D-H Hans A.
