Storm finding God amidst disaster Reflections from a Hurricane Katrina Survivor Bruce Smith brings the existential struggle of the Covid 19 pandemic to life The book is a raw real life in depth analysis of the most central issues politics healthcare cultural realities faith pain suffering death economic survival global realities and more He is at once a philosopher theologian psychologist economist art historian and social commentator Each of those focuses in the book offer much insight into how we navigate this unique historical event What are we to do when life is completely changed overnight How are we to make sense of such massive structural change on so many important human levels Can our politics grow into something more humane and productive Will our societies devolve or morph into something more fundamentally human Are we headed for a Depression Why does God allow such misery in the world Can any good come of this The author looks at what we are learning through this pandemic as a national people a global community He wrestles with a new understanding of what is truly essential in our lives His reflections on intensely vulnerable episodes of his own life contribute much to discussions on loss betrayal grace and restoration Discussions on our current political climate and the dangers that loom if we don t change offer a poignant dose of reality and warning This is no sugar coated easy bake formula for success book Rather it takes an honest look at life on a broken planet and offers meaning and hope amid the worst of things Bruce Smith s knowledge of history politics and world events offers a strong framework to address our most pressing issues with a balanced yet challenging perspective His metaphors using art natural disasters farming and war capture the mind and bring the reader deep into the action of life A read that is rewarding but not simple A book that will stay with you You are likely to laugh out loud and then weep through the next pages Neither sanitized nor typical this book will call you to think deeply feel fully and long for more of the existential journey it offers In the end it turns out to be the most balanced nuanced and substantial book on this historic pandemic and what it means for us as humans Whether you pick it up while on lockdown or take it with you

when life begins again you will likely read it in a sitting or two It is that good This could be the most important book you read this year a must read for all of us who have asked the question why But not only will this great book answer the why question it will answer the how who and what questions we have all asked Dr Fred Luter former President of Southern Baptist ConventionThe most obvious virtue of his writing is its scope There is something for everyone on the scene narratives autobiography literature philosophical reflection biblical analysis and meditations on the meaning of suffering Dr Leland Ryken C S Lewis Scholar Wheaton College This is the message our people our nation need right now Bruce offers us words of healing written with artistry Like a great jazz composition this deserves a hearing Jason and Ellis Marsalis on Soul Storm finding God amidst disasterIn this work we find that brokenness can actually catapult people toward God s best in turning toward God we can find passion and purpose for rebuilding our lives Dr William Hamel former President of Evangelical Free Church of America A very personal reflection on life storms the survival instinct and the innate need in each of us to sort out the moral reason why Gene Mills Louisiana Family Foru Faith in the Eye of the Storm Janyce Jorgensen,Debra Anderson,2013-11-01 Silence an unusual place to start in harrowing narratives about a hurricane Yet that is where Faith in the Eye of the Storm Katrina Stories in Four Voices begins in the surreal silence immediately following the passing of the destructive storm What happens now How do people respond to the extreme devastation of natural disasters especially people of faith Through candid conversations with survivors of Hurricane Katrina through interviews with staff members of relief organizations and of volunteers and through intense personal experience this faith response is examined The growth and healing that occurs as a consequence of this faith in action is as varied as the individuals who respond Those who live here find hope Those who come to serve leave profoundly changed Interspersed among these accounts are poems from Katrina Poetry in Two Distinct Voices Lincoln NE iPublishing 2007 written by Cee Cee Jay Spencer a Hurricane Katrina survivor Enveloping all the narratives is one overarching voice the voice of God before during after forever Proceeds from this book will be donated to disaster relief and recovery efforts through Hope Builds Inc a non profit organization Book study included Katrina Soul Search Ben Messner,Martin Schoffstall,Seth Barnes,2006 New Orleans 2005 A devastating hurricane approaches the city then veers off at the last moment The nation breathes a sigh of relief until a day later a levee is breached Then in slow motion one of history s most gripping natural disasters unfolds before our lives Learn how the missions sending agency Adventures In Missions after much prayer changed everything it was doing and sent a team of workers to the place of greatest need A Walking Disaster Jamie Aten,2019-01-02 Is there a meaning to our suffering Is hope realistic when tragedy befalls us Is a return to normalcy possible after our life is uprooted by catastrophe These are the questions that disaster psychologist Dr Jamie Aten wrestled with when he was diagnosed with Stage IV colon cancer In this gripping memoir Aten shares the life affirming and faith renewing insights that he discovered during his tumultuous struggle against the disease Aten s journey began in 2005 when Hurricane Katrina struck his community After witnessing the devastation wrought by the storm he dedicated his career to investigating how people respond to and recover from all manner of disasters He studied disaster zones around the globe and founded the Humanitarian Disaster Institute at Wheaton College His expertise however was little comfort when a fateful visit with his oncologist revealed advanced and aggressive cancer You're in for your own personal disaster was his doctor's prognosis Thrust into a battle for his life with cancer cells and chemotherapy ravaging his body Aten found his professional interest taking on new meaning His ordeal taught him firsthand how we can sustain ourselves when burdened with seemingly unbearable suffering Some of his counterintuitive insights include to find hope be cautious of optimism when you want help the least is when you need it most and spiritual surrender rather than a passive act is instead an act of profound courage This last point speaks to the element of grace in Dr Aten's story As he struggled to understand the significance of his suffering he found himself examining his Christian faith down to its bedrock and learned to experience the redeeming presence of God in his life Dr Aten has a natural exuberance that shines through his writing Infused with his compassionate voice and humanitarian concern A Walking Disaster is ultimately an inspirational story about the power of the human spirit to endure trauma with courage

Monnet, Sr., 2010-06-02 They were told that a hurricane was coming They were told to pack for three days They were told to evacuate the city They thought they would return home But in a single day the destiny of one church was changed forever Hurricane Katrina had already struck south Florida as a mild Category 1 hurricane but after returning to the Gulf of Mexico and regaining strength she was back Only this time she was predicted to be a dangerous Category 5 hurricane and her next target was none other than New Orleans Louisiana For years the city was warned that a storm like Katrina could eventually strike but no one knew exactly when Yet in 2005 the time had finally arrived Hurricane Katrina had her eye on the crescent city As the city's residents scrambled to prepare for the worst thousands hunkered down while countless others evacuated But one eastern New Orleans church called Smoking for Jesus Ministry made plans to evacuate and weather the storm together In a 40 car caravan of approximately 200 members they began a journey that would mark one of the greatest modern day deliverance stories of our time This is a story of the utter devastation tragedy and losses surrounding Hurricanes

Katrina and Rita More importantly though this is a story of how this church experienced the hope of God s peace love provision and faithfulness through the storms And as they traveled together throughout the states of Louisiana and Texas they had no earthly idea of the amazing promises of God that awaited them at the end of the journey But first they would need to survive Mount Up This is the story of How One Church Survived Hurricanes Katrina and Rita Hurricane Katrina Hilry Thomas,2006-03 Hurricane Katrina brought devastation to many Thomas offers a guide to weathering the physical and spiritual storms of life and includes his own experiences during and after the hurricane Practical Life
