The History of Human Populations P. M. G. Harris, 2001-07-30 From classic demographic theory to the best contemporary thinking this book will fruitfully replace previous ways of looking at population expansion and contraction The 50 years of scholarship that covers 2 1 2 millennia peoples in all parts of the world and aggregates from hamlets to the global level this volume shows that populations grow or decline according to six related patterns Looking at the path taken by unrestricted population growth the effects of limited resources demographic disaster population explosion and the implications of stable population theory and demographic transition for numerical trends Harris reinterprets and insightfully interconnects all of these via six related growth curves opening the way for a better understanding of how populations expand through changes in births deaths and migrations and how they interact with their economic social and physical environments All six trend types the book shows are shaped by forces internal to the dynamics of populations themselves Most frequently they increase in a constantly proportionally slowing curve as a specific stimulus is spent through expansion With shocks like war or epidemics they contract according to an upside down version of this curve The only two curves until recent times these are still the most common in local populations With modern economic and social change some populations mostly larger ones follow one of four newer growth patterns either increasing at a steady rate growing in a gradually slowing pattern between this constancy and the rapidly decelerating basic growth curve exploding in an accelerating fashion or in a few ominous cases decreasing in an accelerating decline Where these curves occur depends on the distinctive ways populations interact with economic changes Harris s findings have profound implications for understanding economic and social change These implications will be discussed in the following volume The Geography of Urban-Rural Interaction in Developing Countries Robert Potter, Tim Unwin, 2017-10-30 Originally published in 1989 The Geography of Urban Rural Interaction in Developing Countries addresses the nature and importance of the interaction between urban and rural areas within Third World national territories providing much needed comparative cross cultural and cross national material The book discusses the various theories of urban rural interaction and summarises the topic in the form of the movement of people goods money capital new technology energy information and ideas Case studies are drawn from different areas of the Third World including Africa Asia the Middle East and the Caribbean and illustrate in detail the nature of urban rural interaction South Africa Newell Maynard Stultz, 1989 Race and the Law in South Africa A. J. Rycroft, 1987 E Race and Rights Africa, 2006 First Published in 2006 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Africa Various Authors, 2013-01-11 Complete set Since 1961 the Adelphi Papers have provided some of the most informed accounts of international and strategic relations Produced by the world renowned International Institute of Strategic Studies each paper provides a short account of a subject of topical interest by a leading military figure policy maker or academic The project reprints the first forty years of papers arranged into thematic sets The collection as a whole provides a rich and insightful account of international affairs during a period which spans the second half of the Cold War the fall of the communist bloc and the emergence of a new regime with the United States as the sole superpower There is a wealth of global coverage Four volumes on east and southeast Asia as well as individual volumes on China Japan and Korea Particular attention is given to the Middle East with volumes addressing internal sources of instability geo politics and the role of the superpowers the Israel Palestine conflict and the Iran Iraq War and the first Gulf War There is also a volume on oil and insecurity There are also two volumes on Africa the site of most of the world s wars during the period The IISS has obviously made a particular contribution to the understanding of military strategy and this is reflected with material on topics such as urban and guerrilla warfare nuclear deterrence and the role of information in modern warfare Volumes on military strategy are complemented by approaches from other disciplines such as defence economics Key selling points Early papers were only distributed by the IISS and will have achieved limited penetration of the academic market A host of major authors on a range of different subjects eg Gerald Segal on China Michael Leifer on Southeast Asia Sir Lawrence Freidman on the revolution in military affairs Raymond Vernon on multinationals and defence economics Individual volumes will have a strong appeal to different markets eg the volume on defence economics for economists various volumes for Asian Studies etc

The Structural Origins of Revolution in Africa Vernon Damani Johnson, 2003 Johnson political science Western Washington U examines the way that external material and ideological forces structurally condition the possibilities and consequences of revolution in Africa during the post World War II era The pursuit of global hegemony by the United States and the Soviet Union their formal support for self determination and racial equality European ideas of liberalism and international disagreement about the economic and political directions independent nations should take are all discussed Case studies include Kenya Cameroon Algeria Portuguese Africa and South Africa Annotation c 2003 Book News Inc Portland OR booknews com
