COVER LETTER

Dear Hiring Manager,

Having seen the strides your organization has made in leveraging technology to streamline operations, I recognize the value you place on strategic transformation and the caliber of professionals you enlist to steer these initiatives. My experience aligns seamlessly with your commitment to innovation and sustainable growth.

At Deutsche Bank, I spearheaded the development of two 6,000 sq ft acceleration labs and oversaw the "new ways of working" pilot program, which involved a sweeping organizational and cultural shift. This endeavor not only facilitated a 30% improvement in project collaboration efficiency but also served as a benchmark, replicated bank-wide to enhance the agility and responsiveness of our teams. It was a sophisticated blend of process design, engagement strategies, and governance that underscored my expertise in high-impact business transformation.

I am eager to discuss how my background in driving transformational projects dovetails with the goals of your team. I am confident that my strategic acumen and proven track record can contribute to the continued success of your company. Please consider this letter and the attached resume as an earnest proposal of collaboration, and I would sincerely appreciate the opportunity to further discuss my potential role at an interview.

Sincerely,

JASMINE BELL

don't bother to spell check before sending out the cover letter and resume. It's always a good idea to ask a friend or family member to check your letter for spelling errors and typos to give you a fresh perspective. Not including the name of the hiring manager. If you don't know who is going to read your cover letter and resume, try to find out. When in doubt, call the company and ask who the person in charge of that department is so you can target your letter appropriately. Not writing to an audience. Focus each letter on each employer. According to Career Builder, 44 percent of executives polled said it's common for applicants to use their cover letters to show they've learned more about the job. Doing so can give you an edge against the competition. Failing to sell yourself. If you undersell your skills and qualifications, you won't make an impression on the reader. Don't just talk about your accomplishments; give concrete examples. Regurgitating the resume. Cover letters weren't meant as a tool to repeat everything that's in your resume. It's a tool to build on it and an opportunity to correlate your experience with the job you're applying for.
