Steven Caney's Toy :

Steven Caney's Toy Book Steven Caney, 1972 First published in 1972 Steven Caney's classic Toy Book was written only after much research by the author and a group of 30 friends all under the age of 13. A designer at the Boston Children's Museum who had lectured at Harvard on the virtues of the refrigerator carton as a plaything, Caney came up with ideas the kids tested, they constructed and built, tried variations, used different materials, played. No toy could be included in the now famous collection until it was agreed upon by every child. Could it be made easily? Was it fun? Safe? Caney and the children did their work well. As soon as Toy Book was released, it was recommended by the Museum of Modern Art, numerous book clubs, critics. Use it now as boys and girls always have to enter new worlds of imagination, concentration, and confidence. Steven Caney's Toy Book Steven Caney, 1988-02-01 Directions for making fifty-one toys and games from easily available materials.

Steven Caney's Toybook Steven Caney, 1977 Physical Knowledge in Preschool Education Constance Kamii, Rheta DeVries, 1993-06-15 Exploring the rationale and basic tenets of Piaget's theory, the authors define physical knowledge activities, consider reasons for their use, and discuss principles of teaching rooted in theory-based objectives. Hobbies Through Children's Books and Activities Nancy A. Jurenka, 2001-08-15 Help students develop their own special talents and interests while supporting student literacy, social development, and a lifelong interest in reading through connecting books to children's hobbies. Each of the book's 30 chapters focuses on a different hobby through an annotation of a picture book in which the targeted hobby has a key role. Jurenka further explores each hobby, ranging from bird watching to tap dancing, through a starter activity, a language arts activity, a poem citation, a glossary of associated vocabulary, references to related societies and associations, and five annotations of nonfiction informational books. Not only will students enthusiastically read about their chosen hobbies; they will develop healthy, lifelong passions for activities that positively affect their social and intellectual development. Grandparent Catalog Charles S. Slaybaugh, 1986 Designing the Creative Child Amy F. Ogata, 2013-04-21 The postwar American stereotypes of suburban sameness, traditional gender roles, and educational conservatism have masked an alternate self-image tailor-made for the Cold War. The creative child, an idealized future citizen, was the darling of baby boom parents, psychologists, marketers, and designers who saw in the next generation promise that appeared to answer the most pressing worries of the age. Designing the Creative Child reveals how a postwar cult of childhood creativity developed and continues to this day. Exploring how the idea of children as imaginative and naturally creative was constructed, disseminated, and consumed in the United States after World War II, Amy F. Ogata argues that educational toys, playgrounds, small middle-class houses, new schools, and children's museums were designed to cultivate imagination in a growing cohort of baby boom children. Enthusiasm for encouraging creativity in children countered Cold War fears of failing competitiveness, and the postwar critique of social conformity making creativity an emblem of national revitalization. Ogata describes how a historically rooted belief in children's capacity for independent thinking was transformed from an elite concern of the interwar years to a fully consumable and aspirational ideal that persists today From building blocks to Gumby playhouses to Playskool trains Creative Playthings to the Eames House of Cards Crayola fingerpaint to children s museums material goods and spaces shaped a popular understanding of creativity and Designing the Creative Child demonstrates how this notion has been woven into the fabric of American culture The Need to Know Library journal,1976 Children's Toys and Books Doris McNeely Johnson,1984-04 The Home School Source Book Donn Reed,1994 How to Father Fitzhugh Dodson,1975 Good Times with Toys Kerry MacIsaac,1985 Child Care and Development Occupations, Competency Based Teaching Modules, 1974 United States.
