Understanding Health Insurance Jo Ann C. Rowell, Michelle A. Green, Loring Ed. Rowell, 2003-07 Understanding Healthcare Economics Jeanne Wendel, PhD, Teresa D. Serratt, PhD, RN, William O'Donohue, PhD, 2017-11-22 Healthcare economics is a topic of increasing importance due to the substantial changes that are expected to radically alter the way Americans obtain and finance healthcare. Understanding Healthcare Economics 2nd Edition provides an evidence based framework to help practitioners comprehend the changes already underway in our nation's healthcare system. It presents important economic facts and explains the economic concepts needed to understand the implications of these facts. It also summarizes the results of recent empirical studies on access, cost and quality problems in today's healthcare system. The material is presented in two sections. Section 1 focuses on the healthcare access, cost and quality issues that create pressures for change in health policy. The first edition was completed just as the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (PPACA) was debated and passed. This new edition updates the information about access, cost and quality issues. It also discusses the pressure for change that led to the passage of the PPACA. Evidence that shaped the construction of the act, evidence on the impacts of the PPACA and evidence on the pressures for future changes. Section 2 focuses on changes that are underway, including changes in the Medicare payment system, new types of healthcare delivery organizations such as ACOs and patient centered medical homes. It also discusses the current efforts to help patients build health such as wellness programs and disease management programs. And finally, health information technology will be discussed. The new edition will maintain the current structure, however each chapter will be updated to discuss post-PPACA evidence on each type of topic. In addition to the updates previously mentioned, the authors will present a series of data explorations to several chapters. Most of the new data explorations present summarized statistical information based on de-identified data from one hospital electronic data system. These data explorations serve two purposes. First, they illustrate the impacts of the pressures for change and some of the changes on healthcare providers. For example, the data illustrates the financial impact of pre-PPACA uncompensated care. Second, explanation of the data will require explanations of standard coding systems that are used nationwide: DRGs, CPT, ICD codes. Other data explorations provide detail about other sources of data useful for health policy analysis and for healthcare providers and insurers. Understanding Health Insurance Michelle A. Understanding Health Information Systems for the Health Professions Jean A. Balgrosky, 2019-03-19 Covering the principles of HIS planning, cost effectiveness, waste reduction, efficiency, population health management, patient engagement and prevention, this text is designed for those who will be responsible for managing systems and information in health systems and provider organizations. Who Will Care for Us? Ronald Angel, Jacqueline L. Angel, 1999-06 An important contribution to the on-going national dialogue concerning the need for planning for an increasingly aged population and its impact on our social, political, medical, economic institutions. Wisconsin Bookwatch. Based on their assessments of the levels of

need for the long term care among African American Latino and non Latino white older persons the authors offer viable and attractive possible alternatives to institutionalization in the long term care of the elderly Nurse Practitioner A major contribution Should be a part of every course on social gerontology long term care the demography of aging or formal informal support networks of the elderly Robert Joseph Taylor Institute for Social Research University of Michigan America is getting older By the year 2010 almost one in five Americans will be 65 years of age or older The combined forces of low fertility and longer life spans among all racial and ethnic groups have resulted in a disproportionate increase in the number of individuals over 65 and an even faster increase in the proportion of those individuals over eighty five As a result the nation faces an unprecedented challenge in addressing the economic medical and long term care needs of this older population at the same time that it assures the welfare of the young The growth of the cost of the long term care of the elderly is one of the major forces behind recent increases in Medicaid expenditures and any reformed health care financing system will have to find ways of providing high quality long term care to older Americans at a reasonable cost In a racially and culturally diverse nation like the United States official policy regarding the care of the elderly simply cannot be based on the assumption that the elderly are a culturally and socially monolithic population The cultural social and economic situations of the elderly simply differ too greatly and the family's role in their care is affected by important cultural and social factors In Who Will Care for Us Ronald J and Jacqueline L Angel argue that policies based on the assumption of a homogenous population will fail to take advantage of the opportunities that ethnic and cultural diversity offer for the long term care of the elderly The authors examine the great racial and ethnic diversity among the elderly in the contemporary U S in terms of living arrangements economic well being and reliance on formal and family based sources of support Based on their assessments of the levels of need for long term care among black Hispanic and non Hispanic white older persons they offer viable and attractive possible alternatives to institutionalization in the long term care of the elderly
