Future of Civil Society Annette Zimmer, Eckhard Priller, 2013-12-20
Few developments in the recent history of Central Europe have been more momentous than the emergence or, more precisely, the re-emergence of civil society or organized citizen activity outside the boundaries of the state and the market. Indeed, the re-emergence of civil society was the key to all the other momentous developments that have characterized the extraordinary past two decades of Central European history: the fall of the Berlin Wall, the disintegration of the Soviet empire, the re-emergence of the market, the appearance of democratic government, and now the re-integration of

Europe More than that the re emergence of civil society in Central Europe has revolutionized the position of civil society on the world stage more generally boosting its visibility enhancing its credibility and transforming its reputation from that of ineffectual supplicant to powerful instrument of social economic and political change Despite its achievements however the Central European civil society sector remains at least in its Visegrad segments a fragile organism undercapitalized understaffed and still not fully integrated into the prevailing political and economic order It is as if these countries have not yet decided how to reconcile their new civil society institutions with their recent history of extensive state provision of social welfare services not to mention their earlier rich histories of civil society organization and voluntary action Indeed this earlier history has been largely lost from view

The Nature of the Nonprofit Sector J Steven Ott, Lisa Dicke, 2021-05-27 The Nature of the Nonprofit Sector is a collection of insightful and influential classic and recent readings on the existence forms and functions of the nonprofit sector the sector that sits between the market and government The readings encompass a wide variety of perspectives and disciplines and cover everything from Andrew Carnegie's turn of the century philosophy of philanthropy to the most recent writings of current scholars and practitioners Each of the text's ten parts opens with a framing essay by the editors that provides an overview of the central themes and issues as well as sometimes competing points of view The fourth edition of this comprehensive volume includes both new and classic readings as well as two new sections on the international NGO sector and theories about intersectoral relations The Nature of the Nonprofit Sector Fourth Edition is therefore an impressively up to date reader designed to provide students of nonprofit and public management with a thorough overview of this growing field

Non-Governmental Organizations (NGOs) and Sustainable Development in Sub-Saharan Africa Robert A. Dibia,2008 This book examines the role of NGOs in development projects on the African continent It explores the challenges and the contradictions in the relationship between the NGOs the supporting agencies and the African people It is intended to provide guidance for civil society organizations and their client groups who struggle to find viable means to collaborate with NGOs the private sector and public sector This books argues that increased knowledge and cooperation is essential to the achievement of sustainable development Therefore community based organizations and public servants must consider whether they possess the necessary resources as well as the economic opportunities before they embark on any activity Sustainable development activities might not be useful or reasonable for every rural community in Africa One thing is very clear the forces of globalization or sustainable development do not respect cultural boundaries This book clearly states that for African nations to succeed they must find alternatives to centralized powers of national government In addition this book examines the transformation of several sub Saharan African nations in the twenty first century African nations must reevaluate their concept of leadership which rests on the notion that good leaders are born not made Therefore there should be a greater emphasis on the development of political and managerial skills through formal education and industrial training NGOs and civil societies could play a vital role in this transformation and therefore the future of Africa
