Who Rules the Net? Adam D. Thierer, Clyde Wayne Crews, 2003 The rise of the World Wide Web is challenging traditional concepts of jurisdiction governance and sovereignty Many observers have praised the Internet for its ubiquitous and borderless nature and argued that this global medium is revolutionizing the nature of modern communications Indeed in the universe of cyberspace there are no passports and geography is often treated as a meaningless concept But does that mean traditional concepts of jurisdiction and governance are obsolete When legal disputes arise in cyberspace or when governments attempt to apply their legal standards or cultural norms to the Internet how are such matters to be adjudicated Cultural norms and regulatory approaches vary from country to country as reflected in such policies as free speech and libel standards privacy policies intellectual property antitrust law domain name dispute resolution and tax policy In each of those areas policymakers have for years enacted myriad laws and regulations for realspace that are now being directly challenged by the rise of the parallel electronic universe known as cyberspace Who is responsible for setting the standards in cyberspace Is a U N for the Internet or a multinational treaty appropriate If not whose standards should govern cross border cyber disputes Are different standards appropriate for cyberspace and real space Those questions are being posed with increasing frequency in the emerging field of cyber law and constitute the guiding theme of this book s collection of essays Book jacket health care or an increase in inequality white male supremacy and social strife depending on the size of the voter turnout by younger voters At this crucial moment in American history when voting rights could be expanded to include all citizens or legislatively limited this significantly updated edition of Who Rules America shows precisely how the top 1% of the population who own 43% of all financial wealth and receive 20% of the nation's yearly income dominate governmental decision making They have created a corporate community and a policy planning network made up of foundations think tanks and policy discussion groups to develop the policies that become law Through a leadership group called the power elite the corporate rich provide campaign donations and other gifts and favors to elected officials serve on federal advisory committees and receive appointments to key positions in government all of which make it possible for the corporate rich and the power elite to rule the country despite constant challenges from the inclusionary alliance and from the Democratic Party The book explains the role of both benign and dark attempts to influence public opinion the machinations of the climate denial network and how the Supreme Court came to have an ultraconservative majority who serve as a backstop for the corporate community as well as a legitimator of restrictions on voting rights union rights and abortion rights by ruling that individual states have the power to set such limits Despite all this highly concentrated power it will be the other 99.5% not the top 0.5% who will decide the fate of the United States in the 2020s on all the important issues
