Topics In Dietary Fiber Research:

Topics in Dietary Fiber Research Gene Spiller, 2012-12-06 The study of plant fibers and their effect on human physiology has suddenly after many years of comparative obscurity been catapulted to the forefront of the scientific world This new interest first ignited by certain epidemiological reports has been intensified by new research and by dramatization in the lay press To counteract the dissemination of inaccurate information and to eliminate confusion several authors have felt the need to make objective unbiased reports available to the scientific community The collection of papers in our own Fiber in Human Nutrition Plenum Press 1976 is one such effort However even as it was going to press we realized that increased interest in specific areas of fiber research necessitated a more detailed and up to date look at certain topics This book is directed to that purpose The first volume of Fiber in Human Nutrition was designed as a basic reference textbook covering the entire spectrum of plant fibers from chemical analytical physico chemical physiological medical and epidemiological points of view The present volume which enlarges on specific aspects of dietary fiber is offered as a supplement to Fiber in Human Nutrition Together the two volumes should be a most valuable source of information for the student of the scientific intricacies of fiber An ongoing concern is that many of the substances dealt with in these and other fiber books are not in the classical sense of a fibrous nature at all

Dietary Fiber in Health and Disease David Kritchevsky,Charles T. Bonfield,2012-12-06 This volume carries the proceedings of the Vahouny Fiber Symposium which took place in Washington DC in March of 1996 George V Vahouny pioneered this conference which was conceived as a means of exchanging information on the latest advances in fiber research The conference was renamed in George Vahouny s honor after his untimely death In this volume we have included the reminiscences of Prof A R P Walker one of the pioneers in the field and discussion of the epidemiological findings relating dietary fiber to heart disease cancer and gastrointestinal disease As the overall definition of fiber has broadened we have included for discussion other aspects of carbohydrate chemistry and metabolism Complex carbohydrates were the subject of a full session and resistant starch and the roles of oligosaccharides were discussed later in the meeting Another area of fiber metabolism that is beginning to burgeon is that of the short chain fatty acids and this too was the subject of presentations and discussion In addition the more familiar topics in dietary fiber were updated Workshops devoted to specific areas of fiber research have now become a mainstay of these meetings and they were repeated successfully Due to restraints on spending the attendance at this meeting was somewhat smaller than usual but the discussion was lively and pertinent We are deeply grateful to our sponsors and contributors for their continuing interest in dietary fiber research and for their generous support of this symposium
