Reliability Engineering

Learning this lesson, children learned another basic rule of safety: Stop, look, and listen at each step of crossing the street. These words have the meaning of saying, "Be aware and think about what's happening at the street and the crosswalk before you cross it." This is the most simple example for a pedestrian to understand. These words become an easy reminder for children to follow the most basic rule: Stop, look, and listen.

It is also important to take regular breaks from the computer and move around every hour and your cognitive performance is improved. This pattern may reduce the amount of time the brain spends on activities that are less beneficial for cognitive performance, such as sitting in front of a computer screen for hours on end.
