Achieving Next Generation Literacy Maureen Connolly, Vicky Giouroukakis, 2016-04-29 As a teacher what you want most is for your students to learn to immerse themselves in rich and challenging content and leave your classroom better prepared for school and life In English language arts and humanities this includes developing the multifaceted reading writing thinking and communication skills that constitute next generation literacy including the ability to Read complex text independently Develop strong content knowledge through reading writing listening and speaking Tailor communication in response to different audiences tasks purposes and disciplines Comprehend text as well as critique it Value evidence in arguments they read hear or develop Use technology strategically and capably Understand perspectives and cultures that differ from their own But as a teacher you also know how much is riding on THOSE TESTS achievement tests from the national assessment consortia the SAT and ACT and independent state assessments Is it possible to help students succeed on mandated tests without sacrificing your values your creativity and their education Yes it is possible This book shows you how This not a test prep book It is not about drill and kill practices that narrow learning so that students will pass an exam Instead authors Maureen Connolly and Vicky Giouroukakis present a lesson planning approach for the secondary classroom that generates test success as a byproduct of comprehensive literacy learning After a comparative analysis of how current ELA assessments measure literacy they model a backward design based process for using these test items as a tool to create engaging and effective instruction With 6 sample lessons 42 instructional techniques and tips for differentiation this practical resource will empower you to help the students you love become capable literate individuals who are also well prepared to ace high stakes tests

Common Sense Questions about Tests Gerard Giordano, 2016-03-07 Parents had questions about the tests their children took at school They considered them to be common sense questions They posed them to the businesspeople publishers and politicians who championed tests They also posed them to the school administrators teachers and union leaders who criticized them This book examines the questions the parents posed the answers they elicited and the changes they prodded

Language, Literacy, and Learning in the STEM Disciplines Alison L. Bailey, Carolyn A. Maher, Louise C. Wilkinson, 2018-02-01 With a focus on what mathematics and science educators need to know about academic language used in the STEM disciplines this book critically synthesizes the current knowledge base on language challenges inherent to learning mathematics and science with particular attention to the unique issues for English learners These key questions are addressed When and how do students develop mastery of the language registers unique to mathematics and to the sciences How do teachers use assessment as evidence of student learning for both accountability and instructional purposes Orienting each chapter with a research review and drawing out important Focus Points chapter authors examine the obstacles to and latest ideas for improving STEM literacy and discuss implications for future research and practice

Resources in Education, 2000-04 Expertise Jessica Gerrard, Jessica Holloway, 2023-01-26 This book offers an important and timely

critique of expertise showing how it is a keyword shaped by social historical and political debates about what counts as knowledge and truth and who counts as experts Using teacher expertise as an illustrative case Jessica Gerrard and Jessica Holloway reflect on recent events including COVID 19 and the climate crisis to examine how expertise is never neutral objective or fixed They argue that getting political is not just an inevitable part of teacher expertise but a necessary basis of any claim to it Across the chapters Expertise explores how expertise is socially constructed in relation to governance uses of data and evidence understandings of ignorance and the unknown and ultimately power Using contemporary and historical examples from international contexts the authors address the political positioning of expertise and how this creates boundaries between who is an expert and who is not and what is and is not expertise Gerrard and Holloway argue that ongoing policy debates about teacher expertise cannot be resolved by neutral definitions of good teaching Rather expertise is unavoidably political in its expression
