What Can We Learn from the Great Depression? Dana Frank, 2024-10-08 Four stories of resilience mutual aid and radical rebellion that will transform how we understand the Great Depression Drawing on little known stories of working people What Can We Learn from the Great Depression amplifies voices that have been long omitted from standard histories of the Depression era In four tales Professor Dana Frank explores how ordinary working people in the US turned to collective action to meet the crisis of the Great Depression and what we can learn from them today Readers are introduced to the 7 daring Black women who worked as wet nurses and staged a sit down strike to demand better pay and an end to racial discrimination the groups who used mutual aid cooperatives eviction protests and demands for government relief to meet their basic needs the million Mexican and Mexican American repatriados who were erased from mainstream historical memory while often fictitious white Dust Bowl migrants became enshrined the Black Legion a white supremacist fascist organization that saw racism antisemitism anti Catholicism and fascism as the cure to the Depression While capitalism crashed during the Great Depression racism did not and was in fact wielded by some to blame and oppress their neighbors Patriarchy persisted too undermining the power of social movements and justifying women's marginalization within them For other ordinary people collective action gave them the means to survive and fight against such hostilities What resulted were powerful new forms of horizontal reciprocity and solidarity that allowed people to provide each other with the bread beans and comradeship of daily life The New Deal when it arrived provided vital resources to many but others were cut off from its full benefits especially if they were women or people of color What Can We Learn from the Great Depression shows us how we might look to the past to think about how we can shape the future of our own failed economy These lessons can also help us imagine and build movements to challenge such an economy and to transform the state as a whole in service to the common good without replicating racism and patriarchy Little 'Red Scares' Professor Robert Justin Goldstein, 2014-06-28 Anti communism has long been a potent force in American politics capable of gripping both government and popular attention Nowhere is this more evident than the two great red scares of 1919 20 and 1946 54 the latter generally if somewhat inaccurately termed McCarthyism The interlude between these two major scares has tended to garner less attention but as this volume makes clear the lingering effects of 1919 20 and the gathering storm clouds of McCarthyism were clearly visible throughout the 20s and 30s even if in a more low key way Indeed the period between the two great red scares was marked by frequent instances of political repression often justified on anti communist grounds at local state and federal levels Yet these events have been curiously neglected in the history of American political repression and anti communism perhaps because much of the material deals with events scattered in time and space which never reached the intensity of the two great scares By focusing on this twenty five year interim period the essays in this collection bridge the gap between the two high profile red scares thus offering a much more contextualised and fluid narrative for American anti communism In so doing the rationale and motivations for the red scares can be seen as part of an evolving political landscape rather than as isolated bouts of hysteria exploding onto and then vanishing from the political scene Instead a much more nuanced appreciation of the conflicting interests and fears of government politicians organised labour free speech advocates employers and the press is offered which will be of interest to anyone wishing to better understand the political history of modern America Sisterly Networks Catherine Clinton, 2020-10-06 Tracing the development of the field of southern women's history over the past half century Sisterly Networks shows how pioneering feminists laid the foundation for a strong community of sister scholars and delves into the work of an organization central to this movement the Southern Association for Women Historians SAWH Launched in 1970 the SAWH provided programming mentoring fundraising and outreach efforts to support women historians working to challenge the academic establishment In this book leading scholars reflect on their own careers in southern history and their experiences as women historians amid this pathbreaking expansion and revitalization of the field Their stories demonstrate how women created new archival collections expanded historical categories to include gender and sexuality reimagined the roles and significance of historical women wrote pioneering monographs and mentored future generations of African American women and other minorities who entered the academy and contributed to public discourse Providing a lively roundtable discussion of the state of the field contributors comment on present and future work environments and current challenges in higher education and academic publishing They offer profound and provocative insights on the ways scholars can change the future through radically rewriting the gender biases of recorded history Contributors Catherine Clinton Michele Gillespie Glenda E Gilmore Cherisse Jones Branch Melissa Walker A volume in the series Frontiers of the American South edited by William A Link The Southern Historian, 2013
