Statistics For Sensory And Consumer Science:

Statistics for Sensory and Consumer Science Tormod Næs, Per Bruun Brockhoff, Oliver Tomic, 2011-06-20 As we move further into the 21st Century sensory and consumer studies continue to develop playing an important role in food science and industry These studies are crucial for understanding the relation between food properties on one side and human liking and buying behaviour on the other This book by a group of established scientists gives a comprehensive up to date overview of the most common statistical methods for handling data from both trained sensory panels and consumer studies of food It presents the topic in two distinct sections problem orientated Part I and method orientated Part II making it to appropriate for people at different levels with respect to their statistical skills This book successfully Makes a clear distinction between studies using a trained sensory panel and studies using consumers Concentrates on experimental studies with focus on how sensory assessors or consumers perceive and assess various product properties Focuses on relationships between methods and techniques and on considering all of them as special cases of more general statistical methodologies It is assumed that the reader has a basic knowledge of statistics and the most important data collection methods within sensory and consumer science This text is aimed at food scientists and food engineers working in research and industry as well as food science students at master and PhD level In addition applied statisticians with special interest in food science will also find relevant information within the book

Individual Differences in Sensory and Consumer Science Tormod Næs, Paula Varela, Ingunn Berget, 2018-02-21 Individual Differences in Sensory and Consumer Science Experimentation Analysis and Interpretation presents easily readable state of the art coverage on how to plan and execute experiments that give rise to individual differences also providing the framework for successful analysis and interpretation of results The book highlights the different methodologies that can be applied and how to select the correct methodology based on the type of study you are performing be it product research and development quality control or consumer acceptance studies Written by an experienced team of statisticians and sensory and consumer scientists the book provides both academics and industry professionals with the first complete overview of a topic of ever increasing importance Identifies how to plan and execute experiments in sensory and consumer science Analyzes and interprets individual variances in sensory and consumer research Differentiates best practices for examining product development quality control and consumer acceptance

Tools and Applications of Sensory and Consumer Science Daniel M. Ennis, Benoit Rousseau, John M. Ennis, 2014-09-30 Now in its sixth printing this book is a must have tool for professionals in product testing consumer research and advertising claims support It contains our most significant and useful technical reports from the last 20 years Readers will easily relate to the problems and solutions in each 2 page scenario And for deeper study the reader will find a list of published papers on a variety of related subjects Drs Daniel Ennis Benoit Rousseau and John Ennis use their combined expertise to guide readers through problems in areas such as Difference Tests Rating and Rankings Claims Support Drivers of Liking and Landscape

Segmentation Analysis LSA Optimizing Product Portfolios Probabilistic Multidimensional Scaling Combinatorial Tools Designing Tests and Surveys The technical content behind each scenario has been kept to a minimum so that ideas can be absorbed easily but there is plenty of opportunity to pursue each account in more detail Examples range from dairy products to beverages and fragrance products and are designed to appeal to a broad audience in the product research field 27 tables for product testing methods have been included so the reader can interpret results from discrimination methodologies such as the tetrad test the triangle test the same different method the duo trio test replicated testing and others 186 pages 95 plus shipping and 5 3% VA sales tax where applicable for print copy To order print copies of this book please call 804 675 2980 or visit www.ifpress.com

Data Science for Sensory and Consumer Scientists Thierry Worch, Julien Delarue, Vanessa Rios De Souza, John Ennis, 2023-09-29 Data Science for Sensory and Consumer Scientists is a comprehensive textbook that provides a practical guide to using data science in the field of sensory and consumer science through real world applications It covers key topics including data manipulation preparation visualization and analysis as well as automated reporting machine learning text analysis and dashboard creation Written by leading experts in the field this book is an essential resource for anyone looking to master the tools and techniques of data science and apply them to the study of consumer behavior and sensory led product development Whether you are a seasoned professional or a student just starting out this book is the ideal guide to using data science to drive insights and inform decision making in the sensory and consumer sciences Key Features Elucidation of data scientific workflow Introduction to reproducible research In depth coverage of data scientific topics germane to sensory and consumer science Examples based in industrial practice used throughout the book

Methods in Consumer Research, Volume 1 Gaston Ares, Paula Varela, 2018-01-02 Methods for Consumer Research Volume One New Approaches to Classic Methods brings together world leading experts in global consumer research who provide a fully comprehensive state of the art coverage of advances in the classical methods of consumer science The book touches on the latest developments in qualitative techniques including coverage of both focus groups and social media while also focusing on liking a fundamental principle of consumer science consumer segmentation and the influence of extrinsic product characteristics such as packaging and presentation on consumer liking In conjunction with the second volume which covers alternative approaches and special applications this book is an invaluable reference for academics working in the fields of in sensory and consumer science psychology marketing and nutrition And with examples of the methodology being applied throughout it serves as a practical guide to research and development managers in both food and non food companies Presents a fully comprehensive coverage of the latest developments in the classical methodologies of consumer research Provides examples of successful application of the methodologies presented Includes focus groups and social media discussions Encompasses consumer segmentation with a focus on psychographics and genetics

Postharvest Handling Wojciech J. Florkowski, Nigel H. Banks, Robert L. Shewfelt, Stanley E. Prussia, 2021-12-05 This newly revised fourth edition of Postharvest Handling brings new and updated chapters with new knowledge and applications from postharvest research. The revised edition brings back the aspects of preharvest conditions and their effects on postharvest quality and features new chapters on the increasingly important role of transportation and logistics. It emphasizes consumer and systems thinking for postharvest chains for fresh produce. This book also explores current challenges including oversupply, waste, food safety, lack of resources, sustainability, and best practices for systems to thrive in spite of these challenges. This unique resource provides an overview of postharvest systems and their role in food value chains and offers essential tools to monitor and control the handling process. Written by a team of experts in Postharvest Systems and Handling, this book continues to be the most practical and up-to-date resource for postharvest physiologists and technologists across the disciplines of agricultural economics, agricultural engineering, food science, and horticulture, along with businesses handling fresh or minimally processed products. Features new chapters on packaging, transportation and logistics, and postharvest in the context of systems approach. Brings aspects of pre-harvest conditions and their effects on postharvest quality. Provides an overview of the postharvest system and its role in the food value chain, offering essential tools to monitor and control the handling process.

Multivariate Analysis of Data in Sensory Science T. Naes, E. Risvik, 1996-02-01. The state of the art of multivariate analysis in sensory science is described in this volume. Both methods for aggregated and individual sensory profiles are discussed. Processes and results are presented in such a way that they can be understood not only by statisticians but also by experienced sensory panel leaders and users of sensory analysis. The techniques presented are focused on examples and interpretation rather than on the technical aspects, with an emphasis on new and important methods which are possibly not so well known to scientists in the field. Important features of the book are discussions on the relationship among the methods, with a strong accent on the connection between problems and methods. All procedures presented are described in relation to sensory data and not as completely general statistical techniques. Sensory scientists, applied statisticians, chemometricians, those working in consumer science, food scientists, and agronomers will find this book of value.

Methods of Analysis of Food Components and Additives, Second Edition Semih Otles, 2011-11-16. With diet, health, and food safety news making headlines on a regular basis, the ability to separate, identify, and analyze the nutrients, additives, and toxicological compounds found in food and food components is more important than ever. This requires proper training in the application of best methods as well as efforts to improve existing methods to meet analytical needs. Advances in instrumentation and applied instrumental analysis methods have allowed scientists concerned with food and beverage quality, labeling, compliance, and safety to meet these ever-increasing analytical demands. This updated edition of Methods of Analysis of Food Components and Additives covers recent advances as well as established methods in a concise guide, presenting detailed explanations of techniques for analysis of food components and additives. Written by leading scientists, many of whom personally developed or refined the techniques, this reference focuses primarily on methods of food analysis and novel analysis instruments. It provides readers with a survey of modern analytical instruments and methods for the analysis of food components additives and contaminants Each chapter summarizes key findings on novel analysis methods including the identification speciation and determination of components in raw materials and food products The text describes the component or additive that can be analyzed explains how it works and then offers examples of applications This reference covers selection of techniques statistical assessments analysis of drinking water and rapid microbiological techniques It also describes the application of chemical physical microbiological sensorial and instrumental novel analysis to food components and additives including proteins peptides lipids vitamins carotenoids chlorophylls and food allergens as well as genetically modified components pesticide residues pollutants chemical preservatives and radioactive components in foods The Second Edition contains three valuable new chapters on analytical quality assurance the analysis of carbohydrates and natural toxins in foods along with updates in the remaining chapters numerous examples and many new figures

Time-Dependent Measures of Perception in Sensory Evaluation Joanne Hort, Sarah E. Kemp, Tracey Hollowood, 2017-02-21 Sensory evaluation is a scientific discipline used to evoke measure analyse and interpret responses to products perceived through the senses of sight smell touch taste and hearing It is used to reveal insights into the way in which sensory properties drive consumer acceptance and behaviour and to design products that best deliver what the consumer wants It is also used at a more fundamental level to provide a wider understanding of the mechanisms involved in sensory perception and consumer behaviour Sensory perception of products alters considerably during the course of consumption use Special techniques are used in product development to measure these changes in order to optimise product delivery to consumers Time Dependent Measures of Perception in Sensory Evaluation explores the many facets of time dependent perception including mastication and food breakdown sensory specific satiety and sensory memory Both traditional and cutting edge techniques and applications used to measure temporal changes in sensory perception over time are reviewed and insights into the way in which sensory properties drive consumer acceptance and behaviour are provided This book will be a valuable resource for sensory professionals working in academia and industry including sensory scientists practitioners trainers and students and industry based researchers in QA QC R D and marketing

A Practical Guide to Sensory and Consumer Evaluation Christopher Findlay, 2029-06-15 A Practical Guide to Sensory and Consumer Evaluations a single resource for those new to sensory science and consumer evaluation teaching them how to confidently select a method conduct research and report the results Written by one of the world s leading sensory scientists this book delivers a practical hands on approach to answering sensory and consumer evaluation questions Each chapter is organized around a key practical question stated at the outset Rather than providing a number of approaches which tend to confuse the reader the book delivers a step by step guide to the specific challenge with any variations in methods explained within the context of problem solving In addition each method has real life worked example taken from the archives of CompuSense a world leading sensory science laboratory A series of appendixes covering How do I topics provides practical guidance to larger questions on organizing conducting and reporting the results of sensory tests Many sensory and consumer practitioners do not receive formal training in the operations side of sensory For those who don't have the time or the need for a broad based education in the field this book is an effective reliable and practical guide to achieve valuable answers to sensory and consumer research questions Presents answers to the various questions of sensory and consumer evaluation professionals from one of the world's leading sensory scientists Offers practical insights permitting someone new to the topic to confidently select a method conduct research and report results Provides worked real world examples of sensory and consumer research projects from leading sensory science laboratories of CompuSense

Discrimination Testing in Sensory Science Lauren Rogers, 2017-09-29 Sensory Science Discrimination Testing in Sensory Science A Practical Handbook is a one stop shop for practical advice and guidance on the performance and analysis of discrimination testing in sensory science The book covers all aspects of difference testing the history and origin of different methods the practicalities of setting up a difference test replications the statistics behind each test dealing with the analysis action standards and the statistical analysis of results with R The book is written by sensory science experts from both academia and industry and edited by an independent sensory scientist with over twenty years of experience in planning running and analyzing discrimination tests This is an essential text for academics in sensory and consumer science and any sensory scientist working in research and development in food home and personal care products new product development or quality control Contains practical guidance on the performance and analysis of discrimination testing in sensory and consumer science for both food and non food products Includes the latest developments in difference testing including both new methods and state of the art approaches Features extensive coverage of analysis with a variety of software systems Provides essential insight for academics in sensory and consumer science and any sensory scientist working in research and development in food home and personal care products new product development or quality control

Chemistry and Industry, 2000 Statistical Methods for Food Science John A. Bower, 2013-09-23 The recording and analysis of food data are becoming increasingly sophisticated Consequently the food scientist in industry or at study faces the task of using and understanding statistical methods Statistics is often viewed as a difficult subject and is often avoided because of its complexity and a lack of specific application to the requirements of food science This situation is changing there is now much material on multivariate applications for the more advanced reader but a case exists for a univariate approach aimed at the non statistician This second edition of Statistical Methods for Food Science provides a source text on accessible statistical procedures for the food scientist and is aimed at professionals and students in food laboratories where analytical instrumental and sensory data are gathered and require some form of summary and analysis before interpretation It is suitable for the food analyst the sensory scientist and the product developer and others who work in food related disciplines involving consumer survey investigations will also find many sections of use. There is an emphasis on a hands on approach and worked examples using computer software packages and the minimum of mathematical formulae are included. The book is based on the experience and practice of a scientist engaged for many years in research and teaching of analytical and sensory food science at undergraduate and post graduate level. This revised and updated second edition is accompanied by a new companion website giving the reader access to the datasets and Excel spreadsheets featured in the book. Multivariate Data Analysis in Sensory and Consumer Science Garnt B. Dijksterhuis, 2008-06-02. This book is an outgrowth of research done by Dr Gamt Dijksterhuis for his doctoral thesis at the University of Leiden. However there are also contributions by several other authors as well including Eeke van der Burg, John Gower, Pieter Punter, Els van den Broek and Margo Flipsen. This book discusses the use of Multivariate Data Analysis to solve problems in sensory and consumer research. More specifically the focus is on the analysis of the reactions to certain characteristics of food products which are in the form of scores given to attributes perceived in the food stimuli. The analyses are multivariate and the senses are mainly the senses of smell and taste. The four main themes covered in the book are: 1 Individual Differences, 2 Measurement Levels, 3 Sensory Instrumental Relations and 4 Time Intensity Data Analysis. The statistical methods discussed include Principle Components Analysis, Generalized Procrustes Analysis, Multidimensional Scaling, Redundancy Analysis and Canonical Analysis. This book will be a value to all professionals and students working in the sensory studies. New Scientist, 1998
