Presenting Counterpoints to the Dominant Terrestrial Narrative of European Prehistory John T. Koch,Mikael Fauvelle,Barry Cunliffe,Johan Ling,2025-05-31 Challenges the terrestrial focus of European prehistory emphasizing the significance of seascapes maritime networks and coastal societies in shaping prehistoric Europe For many years now the main thrust of European prehistory has followed a fundamentally terrestrial plot line This terrestrial paradigm has undervalued the story of Europe as a peninsula between the Baltic Mediterranean and Atlantic and likewise downplayed that of many navigable rivers that reach deeply inland and the large lakes important for travel and subsistence In vast areas of Europe the survival of incoming groups depended on coping and interacting with a seascape as much as a landscape From the late Mesolithic onwards in regions such as Scandinavia the British Isles and the Mediterranean most occupation was coastal seas or rivers provided the most important infrastructure for transport exchange and communication Know how about seascapes boatbuilding navigation and maritime networks had a profound impact on social organisation ritual monuments and iconography and the spread of materials and ideas enabled by the adaptation of languages to these new environments Given these facts the time is long overdue to critique the dominant terrestrial paradigm of European prehistory This book is the first in the multi author series Maritime Encounters outputs of the major six year 2022 2028 international research initiative funded by Sweden s central bank Our programme is based on a maritime perspective a counterpoint to prevailing land based vantages on Europe s prehistory In the Maritime Encounters project a highly international cross disciplinary team has embarked on a diverse range of research goals to provide a more detailed and nuanced story of how prehistoric societies realised major and minor sea crossings organised long distance exchange and adapted to ways of life by the sea in prehistory

Human Rights, Diversity, and National Identity Patricia E. Bromley,2011 Fundamental world changes that simultaneously undermine a nation state s charisma and promote the rise of a supra national system have wide ranging effects upon national states within a modern global society My dissertation empirically examines the effects of social and cultural globalization on systems of mass schooling which are central institutions in every country Globally primary and secondary education initially emerged as the premier tool for nation states to create a unified national citizenry loyal to their country and socialized into a common cultural tradition I examine the extent to which this original nationalizing purpose of schooling is challenged by the increased emphases on universal human rights and diversity in civic education. The analyses consist of two sections. Hierarchical linear models are used to analyze a unique primary data source of 521 social science textbooks from 74 countries during the period 1970-2008. These findings show a worldwide increase in emphasis on human rights and increases in discussions of diversity in well-established liberal democracies. Cross-national quantitative analyses are complemented by a qualitative case study of social science curricula in British Columbia, BC, which examines nation building within a context of strong emphasis on diversity and human rights. The BC study utilizes currently approved high school citizenship education textbooks as well as older textbooks dating back to 1871. It also draws on a selection of historical documents including Ministry of Education reports, curricular frameworks, and high school exit exams. Process wise, I find the incorporation of human rights and diversity reflects macro-level changes in national and global society. Content wise, I find four main approaches to reconciling ideas of human rights and diversity with national identity: 1) framing human rights and multiculturalism as part of national identity; 2) using pedagogical approaches that promote multiple perspectives and individual agency; 3) celebrating social and scientific figures and accomplishments as the source of national pride; and 4) drawing on exogenous sources to affirm state legitimacy. This study is one of the first to theorize that civic education worldwide is moving away from a national focus and to provide empirical evidence of this trend. A key implication is that educational systems are being repurposed from their original goal of constructing a unitary national citizenry to a new view emphasizing human diversity and equality in a globally interconnected world. Further, students are increasingly taught that the global civil society and non-state actors are important and legitimate agents of social change.

American Book Publishing Record, 2005 Yearbook - National Council for the Social Studies National Council for the Social Studies, 1945 Dynamic Processes and Reading Novels Irene O'Leary, 2025-05-12 This book is about the dynamic processes that generate novel reading. It takes the view that the world is composed of dynamic processes and introduces a process dynamics approach to articulate this stance. This fresh perspective draws on literary studies, process philosophy, and neuroscience to argue that dynamic literary and microcognitive processes constantly reconfigure the conditions that they co-create during reading. Analyses of The PowerBook by Jeanette Winterson, The Curious Incident of the Dog in the Night-time by Mark Haddon, and Oryx and Crake by Margaret Atwood consider style, narration, allusion, and creativity in interaction with diverse microcognitive processes involved in reading. The analyses are strengthened by taking live action into account, illuminating changes that many critical perspectives miss or standardise and avoiding reliance on illusory ideal readers and readings. In proposing a process approach to dynamics and its analysis, this book paves the way for new research across disciplines.

Subject Guide to Books in Print, 2001 Journal of Enterprise Management, 1978 Burnt by Democracy Jacqueline Kennelly, 2023-11-30 Burnt by Democracy traces the political ascendance of neoliberalism and its effects on youth. The book explores democracy and citizenship as described in interviews with over forty young people ages

16 to 30 who have either experienced homelessness or identify as an activist living in five liberal democracies Canada Australia New Zealand the United States and the United Kingdom Highlighting significant cuts to social and affordable housing astronomical increases in the costs of higher education and the transformation and erosion of state benefits systems Jacqueline Kennelly argues that democracy's decline is not occurring because young people are apathetic or focused on informal politics or unaware of their civic duties Rather it is because of collective misunderstanding about how democracy is actually structured how individuals learn to participate and how growing wealth inequality has undermined the capacity of those at the bottom to meaningfully advocate for changes that might improve their conditions Against a vivid and often heart breaking backdrop of stories from young people struggling to survive and thrive under conditions of ever expanding state retrenchment and inequality Burnt by Democracy makes a timely and impassioned plea for protecting and strengthening democracy by truly levelling the playing field for all American Educational Research Association Annual Meeting Program American Educational Research Association, 2004 Annual Review of Information Science and Technology Carlos A.
