Algorithmic Complexity of DCR

- Cryptogenes monitoring/audit compliance on processes against their knowledge requirements shall include their compliance in general as for the most sophisticated technical standard.
- In the event of a breach/compliance, e.g., data leakage, detection, then as possible follow-up action, the Commission of Supervisors shall conduct an internal audit, which shall encompass the possibility of a professional security assessment of all data, processed with the application of measures that require staff to be able to identify, report, detect, prevent, respond, recover, and/or improve the security of an information system integrated or relevant to regular processing of information of an information system, which is processed, stored, used, or being an activity.
- The Commission of Supervisors shall be responsible for DCR and compliance on processes. Cryptogenes should follow the reporting procedures according to the DCR and other relevant standards.

Reporting and Results under the measures (DGR-22)

- Reports are required. Any compliance on security shall also include internal security requirements, including, but not limited to, the following (not exhaustive) measures under the whole process. Significant incidents include but are not limited to:
 - 1. Intrusions
 - 2. Data loss, leak, deletion or destruction
 - 3. Unauthorized modifications
 - 4. Unauthorized access/interference
 - 5. Unauthorized use/compromise of information
 - 6. Various incidents that directly result in personal injury or damage to property
 - 7. Illegal processing/transfer of information
 - 8. Failure of information system, equipment or infrastructure
 - 9. Failure of security measures or unauthorized access to data
 - 10. Any other security-related incident, depending on the DCRincidents may be significant events.
- The Commission of Supervisors shall be responsible for the results of the DCR and the results of the security measures, including the results of the security measures.
