Suffering and Sentiment in Romantic Military Art Philip Shaw,2017-07-05 In a moving intervention into Romantic era depictions of the dead and wounded Philip Shaw s timely study directs our gaze to the neglected figure of the common soldier How suffering and sentiment were portrayed in a variety of visual and verbal media is Shaw s particular concern as he examines a wide range of print and visual media from paintings to sketches to political prose and anti war poetry and from writings on culture and aesthetics to graphic satires and early photographs Whilst classical portraiture and history painting certainly conspired with official ideologies to deflect attention from the true costs of war other works of art literary as well as visual proffered representations that countered the view that suffering on and off the battlefield is noble or heroic Shaw uncovers a history of changing attitudes towards suffering from mid eighteenth century ambivalence to late eighteenth and early nineteenth century concepts of moral sentiment Thus Shaw s story is one of how images of death and wounding facilitated and queried these shifts in the perception of war qualifying as well as consolidating ideas of individual and national unanimity Informed by readings of the letters and journals of serving soldiers surgeons notebooks and sketches and the writings of peace and war agitators Shaw s study shows how an attention to the depiction of suffering and the development of liberal sentiment enables a reconfiguring of historical and theoretical notions of the body as a site of pain and as a locus of violent national imaginings
