

Social Studies 11: Syllabus

According to the BC Ministry of Education, the aim of social studies is to develop thoughtful, responsible, active citizens who are able to acquire the requisite information to consider multiple perspectives and to make reasoned judgments.

Thus being said, Socials 11 is the most complicated course in the BC curriculum not only because of the vast amount of factual information that is required to remember for the provincial exam but also the complexity and interconnectivity of the topics it focuses on.

The Socials 11 provincial exam requires students to be able to answer over 50 multiple choice questions about various aspects of Canadian politics, history, society, and human geography. It also requires students to produce three essays that demonstrate strong knowledge of the aforementioned topics and the ability to show not only the links between them but also the impact they have had on current Canadian society and culture. Each essay is given a mark out of 6; the average mark received by native English speaking students is a 4. As this provincial exam accounts for 20% of a student's final grade in Socials 11, it is important to start studying for that exam, and practice social exam essay writing, from the beginning of the school year.
