Vaccinated One Mans Quest To Defeat The Worlds Deadliest Diseases:

Vaccinated Paul A. Offit, M.D.,2022-02-01 Medical writing at its finest David Oshinsky author of Polio and winner of the Pulitzer Prize for History Respected physician Paul Offit tells a fascinating story of modern medicine and pays tribute to one of the greatest lifesaving breakthroughs vaccinations and the medical hero responsible for developing nine of the big fourteen vaccines which have saved billions of lives worldwide This edition includes a new foreword by the author Maurice Hilleman s mother died a day after he was born and his twin sister was stillborn Believing that he had escaped an appointment with death he made it his life s work to see that others could do the same The fruits of his labors were nine vaccines that practically every child receives everyday miracles of modern medicine that have eradicated some of the most common and devastating diseases including mumps and rubella Offit a vaccine researcher himself who co invented the rotavirus vaccine befriended Hilleman and during the great man s final months interviewed him extensively about his life and career Those conversations are the heart of Vaccinated In telling Hilleman s story Offit takes us around the globe and across time from the days of Louis Pasteur to today when a childhood vaccine can protect women from cervical cancer and stop a deadly pandemic like Covid 19 Yet these preventative treatments have come under increasing attack from both the left and right and the anti vaxxer movement that began with false reports over autism is growing at an alarming rate threatening society s well being and especially those whose conditions prevent them from being vaccinated Offit makes an eloquent and compelling case for Hilleman s importance arguing that his name should be as well known as Jonas Salk Vaccinated reminds us of the value of vaccines and the power of science to save lives and protect our well being Vaccinated Paul A. Offit,2007-06-12 Maurice Hilleman s mother died a day after he was born and his twin sister stillborn As an adult he said that he felt he had escaped an appointment with death He made it his life s work to see that others could do the same Born into the life of a Montana chicken farmer Hilleman ran off to the University of Chicago to become a microbiologist and eventually joined Merck the pharmaceutical company to pursue his goal of eliminating childhood disease Chief among his accomplishments are nine vaccines that practically every child gets rendering formerly dread diseases including often devastating ones such as mumps and rubella practically toothless and nearly forgotten his measles vaccine alone saves several million lives every year Vaccinated is not a biography Hilleman s experience forms the basis for a rich and lively narrative of two hundred years of medical history ranging across the globe and throughout time to take in a cast of hundreds all caught up intentionally or otherwise in the story of vaccines It is an inspiring and triumphant tale but one with a cautionary aspect as vaccines come under assault from people blaming vaccines for autism and worse Paul Offit clearly and compellingly rebuts those arguments and by demonstrating how much the work of Hilleman and others has gained for humanity shows us how much we have to lose

Between Hope and Fear Michael Kinch,2018-07-03 If you have a child in school you may have heard stories of long dormant diseases suddenly reappearing cases of measles mumps rubella and whooping cough cropping up everywhere from elementary schools to Ivy League universities because a select group of parents refuse to vaccinate their children. Between Hope and Fear tells the remarkable story of vaccine preventable infectious diseases and their social and political implications. While detailing the history of vaccine invention Kinch reveals the ominous reality that our victories against vaccine preventable diseases are not permanent and could easily be undone. In the tradition of John Barry's The Great Influenza and Siddhartha Mukherjee's The Emperor of All Maladies, Between Hope and Fear relates the remarkable intersection of science, technology, and disease that has helped eradicate many of the deadliest plagues known to man.

Fair Doses Seth Berkley, 2025-10-28 How vaccines became the world's most powerful and widely distributed health intervention and the inside story of the challenging race to deliver COVID 19 vaccines globally. Fair Doses is a story of vaccines: how they came about, why they are important, and how they have been made globally available, although our quest for vaccine equity is still ongoing. In this fascinating deep dive into vaccines, Dr. Seth Berkley, an internationally recognized infectious disease epidemiologist and public health leader, offers an inside view of the challenges of developing and disseminating vaccines for a broad swath of illnesses from Ebola to AIDS to malaria and beyond. COVID 19 was a lesson about the devastation a novel virus can bring on our world. When the first signs of this new infection appeared, Dr. Berkley co-created COVAX, a global initiative aimed at ensuring equitable vaccine distribution. The COVAX team had to navigate vaccine nationalism, vaccine diplomacy, intentional disinformation, political forces, and the conflicting incentives of vaccine companies in its race against the virus. In record time, the group organized 193 countries, raised more than 12 billion, built the world's largest portfolio of COVID 19 vaccines, and delivered two billion doses to 146 countries. Future pandemics are an evolutionary inevitability, and future global response needs to be much faster and more equitable. Drawing from his personal experience, Dr. Berkley lays out a bold vision of preparedness that will help the global community take advantage of rapid advancements in science to make our world safer from infectious diseases.

Booster Shots Adam Ratner, MD, MPH, 2025-02-11 A pediatrician and infectious disease specialist warns of the resurgence of measles, the antivaccine movement, and how we can prepare for the next pandemic. Every single child diagnosed with measles represents a system failure, an inexcusable unforced error. The technology to prevent essentially 100 percent of measles cases has been in our hands since before the moon landing. But this serious airborne disease, once seemingly defeated, is resurgent around the globe. Why, at a time when biomedical science is so advanced, do parents turn away from vaccination, endangering their own children and the health of the wider population? Using a combination of patient narrative, historical analysis, and scientific research, Dr. Adam Ratner, pediatrician and infectious disease specialist, argues that the reawakening of measles and the subsequent coronavirus pandemic are bellwethers of forgotten knowledge, indicators of decaying trust in science, and an underfunded public health infrastructure. Our collective amnesia is starkly revealed in the growth of the antivaccine movement and the missteps in our responses to the beginning of the coronavirus outbreak, leading to preventable tragedies.

in both cases Trust in medicine and public health is at a nadir Declining vaccine confidence threatens a global reemergence of other vaccine preventable diseases in the coming years Ratner details how solving these problems requires the use of literal and figurative booster shots to gather new knowledge and retain the crucial lessons of the past Learning and remembering these lessons is our best hope for preparing for the next pandemic With attention and care and the tools we already have we can make the world much safer for children tomorrow than it is today Intellectual Property Rights Issues in Vaccine Development Sachin Kumar Jain, Ravikant Gupta, Sudha Vengurlekar, Nidhi Bais, Gajendra P.

Choudhary,2025-08-01 Intellectual Property Rights Issues in Vaccine Development offers a timely exploration of the evolving role of intellectual property IP in shaping global vaccine research innovation and accessibility As the world continues to grapple with public health challenges like the COVID 19 pandemic this book provides a critical lens on how patents trade secrets and international agreements influence vaccine development and distribution The contents of the book explore the historical evolution of IP in vaccinology the debate over patent protection the intersection of legal frameworks and ethical concerns and the tension between innovation and equitable access Special attention is given to global case studies the impact of international agreements and recommendations for stakeholders across policy industry and healthcare sectors Key features Traces the history and legal evolution of vaccine related IP Analyzes global access challenges and equity concerns Explores the role of IP during the COVID 19 pandemic Examines real world case studies of vaccine IP dynamics Offers actionable policy and industry recommendations The Hastings Law Journal ,2014-08 ImmunoFacts 2008 John D.
