All baby boomers are children of their time In Our Time After a While writer Lloyd Billingsley backpacks into that time the tail end of the tail fin era in its very birthplace In the motor cities of Detroit and Windsor the streets schools and parks jostled with a vast cast of characters The author charts their adventures and the sound track no border could stop and which would spread around the world This was long ago but like Bob Seger the author is still humming a song from 1962 and still looking back in wonder In Our Time After a While his fellow baby boomers and all others can join him Memories are made of this

CROSSING THE BORDER INTO OLD AGE THE BABY BOOMER CHALLENGE BY JULIA COLE KNESSL

The generational upheavals of our sixty to one hundred year olds will rise significantly as the first wave of baby boomers become eligible for retirement. Many retirement issues are addressed and the lifestyles of our older age group will all be affected by the new ideas and energy of our younger members. As a former Professor of Gerontology Julia was only partly prepared for her old age. She found that books on aging were written by researchers who were not retired yet. After fourteen years of retirement Julia now feels qualified to write about the years that are within her experience. She has taken a psychosocial approach to the problems and choices of living with an emphasis on redefining oneself as an older person. Many men and women have shared their experiences. The book offers practical suggestions. Yes the baby boomers are entering the zone of old age a zone where we place old people so that we don't have to worry about them. Who are these upstarts coming forth with new ideas and high expectations? Why are our feathers being ruffled? We have grown quite comfortable in our time zone. This new generation entering our sacred space will be disassociating themselves from the stigma of aging. As people are living longer the numbers celebrating ninety and one hundred year old birthdays are increasing and even more significantly the numbers of men are also increasing but male specific services and activities are lagging far behind. Julia encourages you to look outside of the box in viewing aging issues. How do you downsize? Give up the car. Without feeling lost and resentful. How can you turn these into positive experiences? Are you wealthy enough to retire or too scared to retire? What can you expect from your body? Is it ok to have a drink of alcohol at night? What about your mental abilities are you doomed to have dementias? Memory loss? How will we decide when it is time to stop driving? One of the biggest demands will be that of housing and lifestyles with aging in place being the most popular option. It is generally acknowledged that our baby boomers will be working longer so a retirement life style will be at a later age probably not before seventy five. The market will be hungry for this generation as the competition for services mounts. Demands for apartment living and food service will change. Julia writes The youngest amongst us 70's and 80's remember well the wars we waged against established traditions. We were part of the one hundred and twenty years that it took for women to gain equal voting rights in this country. We picketed Men Only Clubs where business was carried out over leisurely expense paid lunches. We were part of the feminist movement even if we did not burn our bras and go to Woodstock. We turned the position of the at home Mom who did nothing into the working Mom who did both. We saw women crack and transcend the glass ceiling in the work place. Have we thought about how we can transcend the glass ceiling of prejudice against the older person? We need to start by understanding ourselves who we are collectively but more importantly as individuals. If we can learn about the resources available to ourselves and always remember that we raised our children to be self sufficient and independent then we owe it to ourselves and our families to maintain a quality of living which maintains as much independence as our health and financial resources will allow As a retired Professor Emeritus of Gerontology Julia found that most authors were young Julia sees that this new generation will be disassociating themselves from the stigma of aging Julia encourages you to look outside of the box in viewing aging issues How do you downsize Give up the car Prepare for retirement What can you expect from your body What about your mental abilities Things To Do Before Death Annabelle Dimicco,2021-05-04 The Baby
