Foreword

The descriptions and service procedures contained in this manual are based on designs and methods status current as of June 1991.

The products are under continuous development. Services and improvements produced after the above date may therefore have different classifications and repair methods. When this is subject to have a significant bearing on the manual, supplementary service bulletins will be issued to cover the changes.

The use value of this manual will oppose the changes.

In service procedures where the file number or operation number, there is a reference to V-121, this is (Service Manual).

Service procedures which do not include an operation number in the file are for general information and is reference to V-121.

The following levels of description, condition and warning are used in the Service Documentation:

Note: indicates a procedure, practice, or condition that must be followed in order to have the vehicle or component function in the manner intended.

Caution: indicates an unsafe practice where damage to the product could occur.

Warning: indicates an unsafe practice where personal injury or severe damage to the product could occur.

Danger: indicates an unsafe practice where serious personal injury or death could occur.
