

Notes about Reading in General (not just for Ch. 1...always!):

- This is NOT a study guide/work sheet. You need to READ...CAREFULLY AND THOUGHTFULLY! Rather than copying down sentences from the text as you read—THINK—then re-read parts as necessary. The key is to really understand what you are reading and to answer the questions/address the themes in a thorough and meaningful way....in your own words. Information relating to the questions and themes is not always together in a sentence or two.
- In many cases—especially in Ch. 1—you should actually know much more information than the text includes. Do your best to relate the reading to what you already know about ancient history. If that leads to some questions on your part, that's great!! It means you ARE thinking! Jot your questions down—ones about connections to your prior historical knowledge or even ones about things you don't quite understand. Bring those questions to class—they can kick start our discussion in class!

Notes about the Text:

- The text divides history into six parts that relate to six broad time periods. There is an overview of each time period at the beginning of each part as well as a retrospective at the end of each part. DO NOT SKIP THESE! They should help you keep some focus on the “big picture” of history.
- Each chapter begins with a “story” that relates to some part of the chapter. As you read the chapter, try to make sure that you ultimately understand where the intro story relates—the story often includes useful details that you won't find in the chapter itself.
- Each chapter also ends with section entitled “Global Connections.” Make sure you read that, too! Even if there don't seem to be any questions or themes on the reading guide. These sections will help you review what you read in the chapter and will also help you focus on understanding the bigger picture of world history.

Introduction to Part I—“Human Development to 1000 BCE,” p. 2-7

(note—Ch. 1 is the only chapter in this section)

- What does this introduction identify as possible reasons (or “triggers”) for changes that occurred in this time period?
- What were the big changes?

Chapter 1

Here is the vocabulary you should be familiar with:

Paleolithic Age

Neolithic Revolution

Tigris-Euphrates Civilization

Harappan Civilization

pastoral societies

Mesopotamia

Babylonians

pyramids

Shang Dynasty

Hebrews (Jews)

Mesolithic Age

prehistoric

Sumerians

nomads

Bronze Age

city-state

Hammurabi

Kush

ideographic writing

monotheism

Neolithic Age

Catal Huyuk

Egyptians

foraging societies

cuneiform

ziggurat

pharaoh

Harappa & Mohenjo-Daro

Phoenicians

Indo-Europeans

Most of these terms should be nothing new to you. One hint—terms in blue in the text are defined in the glossary at the back of the book. Some of these definitions may really help you (though I will warn you some of the “definitions” don't really tell you anything at all!) If you still don't understand a term even after reading and looking in the glossary...that's something you would want to note in your questions for discussion.

Beginning to “The Neolithic Revolution” on p. 12

- What were the characteristics of life in Paleolithic societies? What can you determine about the Paleolithic Age and the following themes:
 - gender roles and relations
 - technology
