Making it Personal Tanya Kant, 2020-02-25 Targeted advertisements tailored information feeds and recommended content are now common and somewhat inescapable components of our everyday lives With the help of searches browsing history purchases likes and other digital interactions technological experiences are now routinely personalized Companies with access to this information often downplay the fact that users personal data serves as a key form of monetization and their privacy policies tend to use the terms personalization and customization to legitimize the practice of tracking and algorithmically anticipating users daily movements In Making it Personal Tanya Kant sheds light on the dilemmas of algorithmic personalization exploring such key contemporary questions as What do users really know about the algorithms that guide their online experiences and social media presence And if personalization practices seek to act on our behalf then how can users constitute retain or relinquish their autonomy and sense of self At the heart of the book are new interviews and focus groups with web users who through a myriad of resistant tactical resigned or trusting engagements encounter algorithmic personalization as part of their lived experience on the web Tanya Kant proposes that for those who encounter it algorithmic personalization creates epistemic uncertainties that can emerge as trust or anxiety produces an ongoing struggle for autonomy between user and system and even has the power to intervene in identity constitution In doing so algorithmic personalization does not just generate filter bubbles for individuals worldviews but also creates new implications for knowledge production the deployment of cultural capital as an algorithmic tactic and above all formations of identity itself

Teaching Music Improvisation with Technology Michael Fein, 2017-02-03 Incorporating technology in music classrooms can take the mystery out of improvisation What music technology does is establish a strong foundation for chord scale phrase ear training and listening exercises creating a solid backdrop for student expression As author and educator Mike Fein shows technology is a valuable tool that can be used effectively to supplement student practice time while also developing the skills necessary to become a proficient improviser Complete with notated exercises accompaniment tracks and listening resources this book gives teachers methods to set their students free to make mistakes and to develop their own ear for improvisation at their own pace Broken down into significant areas of music technology each chapter focuses on developing a new skill and guides readers to tangible outcomes with the assistance of hands on activities that can be immediately implemented into the classroom In addition to these hands on activities each chapter provides the reader with an iPad Connection to various iOS applications which allows teachers and students another albeit significantly less expensive medium through which to learn share and create art This book will appeal to music educators of students in grades K 12 It will serve collegiate music education courses secondarily and will also appeal to those music educators who work with improvisation and technology
