and beginning scholars with key concepts and methodological resources guiding contemporary inquiry into children's literature. Describes the major media formats and genres for texts expressly addressing children. Considers the production, distribution, and valuing of children's books from an assortment of historical and contemporary perspectives, highlighting context as a driver of content. Maps how children's texts have historically presumed and prescribed certain identities on the part of their readers, sometimes addressing readers who share some part of the author's identity, sometimes seeking to educate the reader about a presumed other, and in recent decades increasingly foregrounding identities once lacking visibility and voice. Explores the historical evolutions and trans-regional contacts and inter-connections in the long process of the formation of global children's literature, highlighting issues such as retranslation, transnationalism, transculturality, and new digital formats for considering cultural crossings and renegotiations in the production of children's literature. Methodically presented and contextualized, this volume is an engaging introduction to this expanding and multifaceted field.
