Human Factors in Virtual Environments and Game Design Tareq Ahram, Christianne Falcão, 2024-07-24 Proceedings of the 15th International Conference on Applied Human Factors and Ergonomics and the Affiliated Conferences Nice France 24 27 July 2024      Neuromodulation of Exercise: Impact on Different Kinds of Behavior Henning Budde, Bruna Velasques, Pedro Ribeiro, Hideaki Soya, 2021-07-14      Manual Physical Therapy of the Spine - E-Book Kenneth A. Olson, 2008-10-15 A hands on how to approach helps you learn techniques and clinical problem solving skills for treating spine and TMJ disorders Written by a well known authority on the subject of spinal manipulation in physical therapy this book provides the information you need to make sound decisions during clinical interventions An evidence based impairment classification approach helps you provide the best outcomes for your patients A companion DVD includes video clips demonstrating spinal examination and manipulation procedures Specifically for physical therapists dedicated to spinal manipulation Complete coverage meets the core curriculum needs of physical therapy students and provides an excellent self study tool for clinicians wanting to enhance their practice Detailed information on treatment strategies and techniques includes evidence based coverage of the examination and treatment of spine and TMJ disorders with an emphasis on integration of manipulation and therapeutic exercise A framework for completing a comprehensive exam includes medical screening patient interview disability assessment and tests and measures along with an evaluation of the examination findings and the principles involved in arriving at a diagnosis and plan of care Narrated video clips on a companion DVD include step by step instructions of each procedure plus a unique 3 dimensional perspective of over 80 spinal manipulations and procedures frontal lateral and cranial views A DVD icon in the book links the text discussion to the DVD Case studies demonstrate the clinical reasoning used in manual physical therapy Guide to Physical Therapist Practice terminology is used throughout the book making the content easier to understand and promoting conformity in terminology Clear photographs show essential concepts and procedures from multiple angles illustrating hand and body placement and direction of force A clear consistent format makes this a convenient reference in the clinical setting Lay flat binding allows the text to lay open for ease of use      The Complete Book of Walking Raymond Dreyfack, 1979      Walk! John Man, 1979      Games and Play in HCI Kathrin Gerling, Joanna Iacovides, Marc Herrlich, Z. O. Toups, 2021-08-03      Neuro-motor control and feed-forward models of locomotion in humans Marco Iosa, Nadia Dominici, Federica Tamburella, Leonardo Gizzi, 2015-07-29 Locomotion involves many different muscles and the need of controlling several degrees of freedom Despite the Central Nervous System can finely control the contraction of individual muscles emerging evidences indicate that strategies for the reduction of the complexity of movement and for compensating the sensorimotor delays may be adopted Experimental evidences in animal and lately human model led to the concept of a central pattern generator CPG which suggests that circuitry within the distal part of CNS i.e spinal cord can generate the basic locomotor patterns even in the absence of sensory information Different studies pointed out the role of CPG in the control of locomotion as well as others investigated the neuroplasticity of CPG allowing for gait recovery after spinal cord lesion Literature was also focused on muscle synergies i.e the combination of locomotor functional modules implemented in neuronal networks of the spinal cord generating specific motor output by imposing a specific timing structure and appropriate weightings to muscle activations Despite the great interest that this approach generated in the last years in the Scientific Community large areas of investigations remain available for further improvement e.g the influence of afferent feedback and environmental constraints for both experimental and simulated models However also supraspinal structures are involved during locomotion and it has been shown that they are responsible for initiating and modifying the features of this basic rhythm for stabilising the upright walking and for coordinating movements in a dynamic changing environment Furthermore specific damages into spinal and supraspinal structures result in specific alterations of human locomotion as evident in subjects with brain injuries such as stroke brain trauma or people with cerebral palsy in people with death of dopaminergic neurons in the substantia nigra due to Parkinson's disease or in subjects with cerebellar dysfunctions such as patients with ataxia The role of cerebellum during locomotion has been shown to be related to coordination and adaptation of movements Cerebellum is the structure of CNS where are conceivably located the internal models that are neural representations miming meaningful aspects of our body such as input output characteristics of sensorimotor system Internal model control has been shown to be at the basis of motor strategies for compensating delays or lacks in sensorimotor feedbacks and some aspects of locomotion need predictive internal control especially for improving gait dynamic stability for avoiding obstacles or when sensory feedback is altered or lacking Furthermore despite internal model concepts are widespread in neuroscience and neurocognitive science neurorehabilitation paid far too little attention to the potential role of internal model control on gait recovery Many important scientists have contributed to this Research Topic with original studies computational studies and review articles focused on neural circuits and internal models involved in the control of human locomotion aiming at understanding the role played in control of locomotion of different neural circuits located at brain cerebellum and spinal cord levels

Interoception, Contemplative Practice, and Health Norman Farb, Catherine Kerr, Wolf E. Mehling, Olga Pollatos, 2017-02-07 There is an emergent movement of scientists and scholars working on somatic awareness interoception and embodiment This work cuts across studies of neurophysiology somatic anthropology contemplative practice and mind body medicine Key questions include How is body awareness cultivated What role does interoception play for emotion and cognition in healthy adults and children as well as in different psychopathologies What are the neurophysiological effects of this cultivation in practices such as Yoga mindfulness meditation Tai Chi and other embodied contemplative practices What categories from other traditions might be useful as we explore embodiment Does the cultivation of body awareness within contemplative practice offer a tool for coping with suffering from conditions such as pain addiction and dysregulated emotion This emergent field of research into somatic awareness and associated interoceptive processes however faces many obstacles The principle obstacle lies in our 400 year Cartesian tradition that views sensory perception as epiphenomenal to cognition The segregation of perception and cognition has enabled a broad program of cognitive science research but may have also prevented researchers from developing paradigms for understanding how interoceptive awareness of sensations from inside the body influences cognition The cognitive representation of interoceptive signals may play an active role in facilitating therapeutic transformation e g by altering context in which cognitive appraisals of well being occur This topic has ramifications into disparate research fields What is the role of interoceptive awareness in conscious presence How do we distinguish between adaptive and maladaptive somatic awareness How do we best measure somatic awareness What are the consequences of dysregulated somatic interoceptive awareness on cognition emotion and behavior The complexity of these questions calls for the creative integration of perspectives and findings from related but often disparate research areas including clinical research neuroscience cognitive psychology anthropology religious contemplative studies and philosophy
