Women's Education in Developing Countries Elizabeth M. King, M. Anne Hill, 1997-07-01 Why do women in most developing countries lag behind men in literacy Why do women get less schooling than men This anthology examines the educational decisions that deprive women of an equal education It assembles the most up to date data organized by region Each paper links the data with other measures of economic and social development This approach helps explain the effects different levels of education have on women's fertility mortality rates life expectancy and income Also described are the effects of women's education on family welfare The authors look at family size and women's labor status and earnings They examine child and maternal health as well as investments in children's education Their investigation demonstrates that women with a better education enjoy greater economic growth and provide a more nurturing family life It suggests that when a country denies women an equal education the nation's welfare suffers Current strategies used to improve schooling for girls and women are examined in detail The authors suggest an ambitious agenda for educating women It seeks to close the gender gap by the next century Published for The World Bank by The Johns Hopkins University Press

What Works in Girls' Education Barbara Knapp Herz, Gene B. Sperling, 2004 What Works in Girls Education summarizes the extensive body of research on the state of girls education in the developing world today the impact of educating girls on families economies and nations and the most promising approaches to increasing girls enrollment and educational quality

Girls' Education in the Twenty-first Century Mercy Tembon, Lucia Fort, 2008-01-01 Persuasive evidence demonstrates that gender equality in education is central to economic development Despite more than two decades of accumulated knowledge and evidence of what works in improving gender equality progress on the ground remains slow and uneven across countries What is missing Given that education is a critical path to accelerate progress toward gender equality and the empowerment of women what is holding us back These questions were discussed at the global symposium Education A Critical Path to Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment which was sponsored by the World Bank in October 2007 Girls Education in the 21st Century is based on background papers developed for the symposium The book's chapters reflect the current state of knowledge on education from a gender perspective and highlight the importance of and challenges to female education as well as the interdependence of education and development objectives The last chapter presents five strategic directions for advancing gender equality in education and their implications for World Bank operations Girls Education in the 21st Century will be of particular interest to researchers educators school administrators and policy makers at the global national regional and municipal levels

What Works in Girls' Education Gene B Sperling, Rebecca Winthrop, 2015-09-29

Hard headed evidence on why the returns from investing in girls are so high that no nation or family can afford not to educate their girls Gene Sperling author of the seminal 2004 report published by the Council on Foreign Relations and Rebecca Winthrop director of the Center for Universal Education have written this definitive book on the importance of girls education As Malala Yousafzai expresses in her foreword the idea that any child could be denied an education due to poverty custom the law or terrorist threats is just wrong and unimaginable More than 1 000 studies have provided evidence that high quality girls education around the world leads to wide ranging returns Better outcomes in economic areas of growth and incomes Reduced rates of infant and maternal mortality Reduced rates of child marriage Reduced rates of the incidence of HIV AIDS and malaria Increased agricultural productivity Increased resilience to natural disasters Women s empowerment What Works in Girls Education is a compelling work for both concerned global citizens and any academic expert nongovernmental organization NGO staff member policymaker or journalist seeking to dive into the evidence and policies on girls education

Promoting Girls' Education in Africa Nicola Swainson, 1997

This report presents research findings about the intellectual political and organizational processes that have shaped government and donor policies and projects concerned with promoting the education of women and girls in Malawi Tanzania and Zimbabwe The study seeks to assess the extent to which gender interventions in education have been donor driven The growing concern about large and persistent gender inequalities in education has led to the development of a number of initiatives on the part of multilateral and bilateral aid agencies aimed at encouraging the participation of women and girls in education Despite this concern efforts to reduce gender inequalities on the part of both governments and donor agencies have been uneven and policy interventions have evolved in a piecemeal fashion In order to explore the reasons for the limited progress that has been made in improving girls education in most developing countries this study focuses on policy formulation and implementation with respect to girls education in the three low income African countries Contains approximately 180 references BT
