Work in the 21st Century Jeffrey M. Conte, 2024 In the first six editions of this book we pursued the premise that the world of work in the 21st century was very different from what it had been in the 20th century That premise is even more relevant today and worth repeating Today's workplace is technological and multicultural Work is often accomplished by teams rather than by single individuals In any given company or department there is greater diversity in terms of demographic characteristics interests and styles than in past decades Although mental and physical abilities remain important attributes for predicting job success other attributes such as personality interpersonal skills and emotional intelligence are receiving increased attention A satisfying life is increasingly defined as striking a balance between work and non work In addition the psychological stability of work may be at an all time low Mergers acquisitions downsizing outsourcing gig work the challenges to financial and housing markets and rapidly changing technologies have all made the idea of lifelong employment at one company or even in one occupation an elusive dream This book ties together all of these themes in a way that explores the rich and intriguing nature of the modern workplace

The labor market is evolving very rapidly in recent years in Europe and worldwide. The fast and deep changes brought a brand new context of challenges and occupational risks to the attention of stakeholders. The current global financial crisis has increased the economic pressures on companies and they in turn have intensified the effects on employees particularly in terms of new competition contexts and a lot of stress and mental health issues. Concurrently social, political and environmental problems generate under employment, over qualification, over education, low wages for skilled workers and unmet demand for education. Consequently both high skilled and low skilled immigrant workers are increasing. In addition, workplaces are continually changing in step with the introduction of new technologies, materials and work processes together with the changes in the labor market, the new forms of employment and the new work organizations. These changes lead to new opportunities for employees and employers but also to new risks or re-actualization of old organizational risks. According to the EU OSHA, the key points that describe the evolution that is currently ongoing in the world of work are globalization, the technical innovation and the aging population. On one hand, some older potential risks are reappearing in organizations: intensive fear and worries, organizational anxiety, boredom, physical violence, alienation, segregation, loneliness and isolation. On the other hand, re-emerging perceived organizational features seem vital for organizations and more important today than ever. Central constructs in the study of organizational behavior and organizational health, such as perceived organizational support, commitment in organizational context, socialization processes, change capacity of organizations, perceived organizational justice, ergonomics and motivation, nowadays seem increasingly important and renewed.
