book Sample Book Insights 1 The debate about slavery has continued to resurface throughout the decades and historians have continued to argue about what it actually meant to be a slave The most recent books have failed to address the experiences of Black women during slavery 2 The typical female slave was a houseservant but in reality the majority of slave women were field workers The oppression of women was identical to the oppression of men 3 While the slave system treated women as second class citizens it also made sure to exploit their reproductive capabilities Because slave women were not mothers their children could be sold away from them 4 The slaveowner would calculate the yield of his slaves in terms of the average rates of productivity he demanded Women were generally rated as full hands unless they had been assigned to be breeders or sucklers

Women without Class Julie Bettie, 2014-09-18 In this ethnographic examination of Mexican American and white girls coming of age in California's Central Valley Julie Bettie turns class theory on its head asking what cultural gestures are involved in the performance of class and how class subjectivity is constructed in relationship to color ethnicity gender and sexuality A new introduction contextualizes the book for the contemporary moment and situates it within current directions in cultural theory Investigating the cultural politics of how inequalities are both reproduced and challenged Bettie examines the discursive formations that provide a context for the complex identity performances of contemporary girls The book's title refers at once to young working class women who have little cultural capital to enable class mobility to the fact that analyses of class too often remain insufficiently transformed by feminist ethnic and queer studies and to the failure of some feminist theory itself to theorize women as class subjects Women without Class makes a case for analytical and political attention to class but not at the expense of attention to other social formations
