Women In The Quran Traditions And:

Women in the Qur'an, Traditions, and Interpretation Barbara Freyer Stowasser, 1994 Islamic ideas about women and their role in society spark considerable debate both in the Western world and in the Islamic world itself. Despite the popular attention surrounding Middle Eastern attitudes toward women there has been little systematic study of the statements regarding women in the Qur'an. Barbara Stowasser fills this void with this study on the women of Islamic sacred history. Women in the Qur'an Traditions and Interpretation presents the Qur'anic revelations on female figures associated with God's prophets from Adam to Muhammad. Revealed narratives and legislation are then pursued through their medieval, modern, and contemporary interpretations. The theological exegetic sources here chosen all Sunni include the major classical works as well as for the modern period examples of modernist traditionalist and fundamentalist exegesis. For Hadith materials beyond the theological tafsir Stowasser analyzes both popular narratives of the tales of the prophets genre and representative samples of the classical historical and legal Hadith. A close reading of modern sources including those by lay writers shows the waning influence of these traditional materials in present day Islamic thought. By telling the stories of the women of sacred history in Qur'an and interpretation this book presents an introduction to past and present Islamic paradigms of doctrine and their socio-economic and political applications. Stowasser establishes the link between the female figures as cultural symbols and Islamic self perceptions from the beginning to the present time. Book Jacket

The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History

Bonnie G. Smith, 2008 The Encyclopedia of Women in World History captures the experiences of women throughout world history in a comprehensive 4 volume work. Although there has been extensive research on women in history by region no text or reference work has comprehensively covered the role women have played throughout world history. The past thirty years have seen an explosion of research and effort to present the experiences and contributions of women not only in the Western world but across the globe. Historians have investigated women's daily lives in virtually every region and have researched the leadership roles women have filled across time and region. They have found and demonstrated that there is virtually no historical social or demographic change in which women have not been involved and by which their lives have not been affected. The Oxford Encyclopedia of Women in World History benefits greatly from these efforts and experiences and illuminates how women worldwide have influenced and been influenced by these historical social and demographic changes. The Encyclopedia contains over 1,250 signed articles arranged in an A-Z format for ease of use. The entries cover six main areas: biographies, geography and history, comparative culture and society, including adoption, abortion, performing arts, organizations and movements such as the Egyptian Uprising and the Paris Commune, women's and gender studies, and topics in world history that include slave trade, globalization, and disease. With its rich and insightful entries by leading scholars and experts this reference work is sure to be a valued go-to resource for scholars, college and high school students, and general readers alike.

Women, Islam and International Law Ekaterina Yahyaoui Krivenko, 2009

Islam and women's human rights entertain an uneasy relationship. Much has been written on the subject. This volume addresses it from a new perspective. It attempts to define some basis for constructive dialogue and interaction in the context of international law and more precisely in the context of participation of many Muslim States in the United Nations Convention on the Elimination of All Forms of Discrimination Against Women. Having discovered a constructive potential in both Islam and women's human rights, the author concentrates on the role which international law should play in promoting dialogue and constructive interaction. This is done mainly through analysis of the regime of reservations and of the practice of reservations developed in the context of Muslim States' participation in the CEDAW. The basic thesis defended is the following: Islam as articulated in the practice of States and women's human rights as reflected in international instruments are both results of human activity. Their analysis in this study reveals more commonalities than one might expect. International law should be more attentive to their voices and more innovative in using these commonalities in order to promote constructive dialogue between them and thus help to improve the situation of women suffering from discrimination and inequalities.
