Work Based Learningthe Key To School To Work Transition:

Work-based Learning James L. Hoerner, James B. Wehrley, 1994-01 A key issue facing today's educators is school to work transition. Schooling must have a connectedness to work so that all students can face a productive future. Drs. Hoerner and Wehrley provide an overview of available solutions to school to work transition as well as specific strategies for instructors, administrators, and counselors to use everyday. Training and Employment Report of the Secretary of Labor United States Department of Labor, 1992. Resources in Education, 1997. School-to-work Transition California. Legislature. Joint Legislative Budget Committee. Legislative Analyst, 1994. Working with Students with Disabilities in Vocational-technical Settings Rebecca B. Evers, Nick Elksnin, 1998. Federal Register, 1991-12-06. Curriculum Development in Vocational and Technical Education Curtis R. Finch, John R. Crunkilton, 1999. What is the current status of vocational and technical education programs? What are the current and projected sources of employment in various communities? How do these two questions influence each other? In order to keep up with the labor demands of an increasingly complex and technologically oriented workplace, vocational and technical schools need to keep their programs on the cutting edge of contemporary work environments. This book offers useful information about how to plan, develop, implement, and succeed in vocational and technical programs. The twelve chapters take the reader through these programs from start to finish. Also included are numerous illustrations, forms, and descriptions of how to successfully work through the development process. Each chapter includes a set of references that assist in gathering additional related information. Instructors, administrators, curriculum specialists, and anyone involved in the vocational and technical education field. School-to-Work Systems: The Role of Community Colleges in Preparing Students and Facilitating Transitions Edgar I.
